JULIA GRANT IS A PRINCESS.

A Brilliant Wedding That Unites Her to Prince Cantacuzene.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 25.—The Episcopal marriage service, supplementing that of the Russian orthodox church that was observed yesterday, which made Prince Cantacuzeno Count Speranski of Russia and Julia Grant, daughter of Brigadier-General Frederick D. Grant, and granddaughter of General U. S. Grant, husband and wife, was celebrated at All Saints chapel here at noon today. The assembly of invited guests, notable for social and military distinction, made the ceremony one of the most brilliant ever witnessed in Newport.

A BRILLIANT WEDDING.

The family and social connections of the bride gave the wedding a military as well as a diplomatic character, and the little church where it took place was bright with blue and gold, the bridegroom's uniform easily outshining those of the home guard.

A large number of the Newport summer colony had delayed their departure to attend the wedding, which came as a climax to one of the gayest seasons ever known at this popular resort.

Right Rev. C. Potter, Protestant Episcopal Bishop of New York, assisted by Rev. Dr. Nevins of the American Church in Rome, officiated, but in accordance with the laws of the State of Rhode Island Rev. Dr. Porter of the Emanuel Church of this city read that portion of the service which legally united the distinguished pair.

A reception followed the wedding ceremony at the Palmer residence, and late this afternoon the Prince and Princess left for New York and St. Petersburg.

DECORATIONS OF THE CHURCH.

All Saints chapel, which seats not quite five hundred, was well filled half an hour before the time set for the ceremony. The walls and ceiling of the chapel were hung with vines and wreaths and white flowers, while the entire altar rail was covered with white roses.

On the altar were suspended a large number of baskets filled with orchids intermingled with a chime of snowy floral wedding bells. Large garlands of bride roses depended from the bells to two columns forming a bower which almost hid from view the bridal party as it stood at the altar. The only music was that of the organ, which gave the notes of the "Lohengrin" wedding march as the procession entered the church doors.

At the same time Bishop Potter and Dr. Porter entered the chapel, followed by the Prince and Hon. R. E. Palmer, a cousin of the bride, who acted as best man by proxy for Grand Duke Cyril of Russia, who was unable to be present.

NO BRIDEMAIDS.

The bridal procession included only Miss Grant and her escort and ushers, as there were no bridesmaids—nor any maid of honor.

As the bride's father at present is with the army in the Philippines, her brother, Ulysses S. Grant, a member of the third class at West Point, acted in his place. Mr. Grant wore the full cadet uniform.

The ushers were: Potter Palmer, Jr., a cousin of the bride; Lockwood Honore, uncle of the bride; Captain Sartoris, a member of General Lee's staff during the late war and also a cousin of the bride; Robert L. Gerry of New York, Roger Winthrop of Newport, John Prentiss of New York, Worthington Whitehouse of New York and Lathrop Randolph of Boston.

THE BRIDE'S GOWN.

Miss Grant was gowned in white. Her dress was severely cut, but of the richest white satin, with a sweeping train and veil of tulle. She received a bouquet of Stephanotis and lilies of chevalley, and were the gifts of the bridegroom, a corsage ornament of diamonds and enamel, and rope of pearls.

The Prince as he stepped down from the chancel to meet the bride was attired in the full uniform of the Cavalier Garde brilliant with red and gold.

THE FINAL WORDS.

At the chancel they separated, three passing to one side and three to the other, while the Prince stepped down to meet his bride.

The oral part of the services finished, the organ burst forth with the Mendelssohn Wedding March, and the Prince and Princess led the way to the chapel door, followed by the ushers.

DISTINGUISHED GUESTS.

Among the congregation, besides the immediate family, were Mrs. Ulysses S. Grant, grandmother of the bride; H. H. Honore, Edwin C. Honore, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Honore Jr., Mrs. Sartoris, wife of Captain Sartoris; Major-General Nelson A. Miles, Mrs. and Miss Miles and Lieutenant-Colonel Michner of General Miles' staff, General Merritt and Major Mott of his staff, Adjutant-General Corbin, Colonel and Mrs. Heimle of West Point, former United States Minister Samuel Thayer of Wisconsin, Assistant Secretary of War Meiklejohn, Chauncey M. Depew and many others.

A SPLENDID RECEPTION.

The reception at the Palmer residence was one of the largest ever held in Newport. The bridal couple received under an immense floral arch, with Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer standing on the right, while seated near was Mrs. U. S. Grant.

The Prince and Princess started for New York on board the steam yacht Narada,

OVATION TO MONTANA MEN.

March to the Presidio One Continuous Triumph.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 25.—The transport Valencia, which arrived from Manila yesterday with Companies A, B, C, F, I, and J of the First Montana Volunteers on board, was docked early today and the soldiers disembarked and marched to the Presidio, where they went into camp.

The men received a fine reception. The sidewalks along the line of march were crowded with cheering people, and at some points it was a difficult matter for the veterans to make their way through the surging crowds. The men were decorated with wreaths and flowers as they left the transport, and presented a very picturesque scene. The Montanas will remain in camp at the Presidio for several weeks before they will be mustered out.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The life-size white marble statue of Former Governor Oliver P. Morton of Indiana was unveiled today in Statuary Hall at the Capitol. No formal ceremonies attended the unveiling.

DISASTER TO OUR FORCES.

Gunboat Is Burned and Her Crew are Either Prisoners or Killed.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

MANILA, Sept. 25.—5:30 P. M.—It is reported that the insurgents have captured the United States gunboat Urdaneta, in the Orani river, on the northwest side of Manila Bay, where she was patrolling. One officer and nine of her crew are missing.

The United States gunboat Petrel, sent to investigate, returned and reported that the Urdaneta was beached opposite the Town of Orani, on the Orani river. She was riddled with bullets and burned, and the following guns, with their ammunition, were captured:

A one-pounder, one colt automatic gun and one Nordenfeldt 25 millitre guns.

The crew of the Urdanet are prisoners or are killed. Further particulars are lacking.

THE ILL-STARRED GUNBOAT.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The gunboat Urdaneta, which was captured with her crew at Orino, about twenty miles from Manila, on the bay of Manila, is a little craft of only forty tons displacement, not much larger than a small tug. She was captured by the navy early in the war, and has been on police duty in the bay for months past. The records of the Navy Department show that she was one of the boats of which the Oregon was the parent ship. That is, she was supposed to draw all of her supplies from the battleship, to be manned from the Oregon's crew and to act under the instruction of the Oregon's commander.

According to the last reports to the department the little boat was last May under the command of Naval Cadet Welborn C. Wood, but the personnel of the crew is not a matter of record, being subject to frequent change. Wood was appointed to the Naval Academy from Oregon, had passed his academic course and was performing sea service at the time of his capture.

Naturally the department officials are vexed that the difficulties of the negotiations looking to the release of Lieutenant Gilmore of the Yorktown and his men should be added to by this last misfortune. Still there is no disposition unnecessarily to curb the junior officers of the navy who are rendering such gallant service in the Philippines

WILL STAND BY THE TRANSVAAL.

Orange Free State's Decision Is to Be Given Out Tomorrow.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

LONDON, Sept. 25.—Another week has opened with the Transvaal situation marking time. No news has yet been received of the delivery at Pretoria of the last British dispatch. The next big news will be the decision arrived at by the Raad of the Orange Free State, whose secret deliberations are expected to close tomorrow, and it will come as a great surprise if the Raad does not decide to link arms with the Transvaal.

Neither the jingoes nor the anti-war party are very proud of yesterday's affair in Trafalgar square, which proved nothing except that a mob is always "jingo."

A telegram received from Calcutta announces the departure of the transport Schidhana for South Africa, and the last transport for the Cape leaves India tomorrow.

CHAMBERLAIN'S LETTER.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The officials of the Foreign Office this evening gave out the text of the letter of the Secretary of State for the Colonies, Mr. Chamberlain, to the British High Commissioner in South Africa, Sir Alfred Milner, dated September 22nd. The British reply expresses regret that her majesty's offer No. 6, of September 9th, had been refused, and says:

"The object her majesty's government had in view in the recent negotiations has been stated in a manner which cannot admit of misapprehension, viz: to obtain such substantial and immediate representation from the Outlanders as will enable them to secure for themselves that fair and just treatment which was formally promised them in 1881, and which her majesty intended to secure for them when she granted privileges of self-government to the Transvaal. No conditions less comprehensible than those contained in the telegram of September 8 can be relied on to effect this object. The refusal of the South African government to entertain the offer thus made, coming as it does, after four months of protracted negotiations, themselves the climax of five years of extended agitation makes it useless to further pursue the discussion on the lines hitherto followed, and the imperial government is now compelled to consider the situation afresh and formulate its own proposals for a final settlement of the issues which have been created in South Africa by the policy and constantly followed for many years by the government of South Africa. It will communicate the result of its deliberations in a later dispatch."

JOHANNESBURG REFUGEES.

VEXED QUESTION IN PHILIPPINES.

Chinese May Land But No Precedent Is Estab ished.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Secretary Root has received a cable message from General Otis, regarding the Chinese situation in the Philippines. He says that the shipload of 700 can be landed without serious interference with military operations. General Otis discussed at considerable length the subject of Chinese in the Philippines, and the dispatch was referred to the State Department, where it was made the subject of a conference between Acting Secretary Hill and the Chinese Minister.

A settlement of the general issue between the two governments respecting the admission of Chinese to the Philippines was not attained through this particular incident, which was considered disposed of solely on its own merits.

The Chinese will be landed, but without recognizing the right of the Chinese government to demand this. On the other hand, the Chinese government, while permitting the men to land, does not in any manner concede our right to apply the Chinese exclusion law to the Philippines, and stand by the principles enunciated in the formal protest which was made last week by the Chinese Minister here against General Otis' action.

The result of the conference between Acting Secretary Hill, with whom the War Department had rested the responsibility for the decision, and Minister Wu, is set out in the following official statement:

"The Chinese from Amoy on the steamers Esmeralda and Salvadora, about one half of them being previous residents of the Philippines, have been permitted to land, owing to the special circumstances of the case, on the promise of the Chinese Consul General at Manila that no more Chinese will leave Chinese ports for the Philippines unless qualified to land under the War Department regulations."

It was stated that the Chinese Minister was satisfied with this action in this particular case, although, as already stated, he does not concede the right of exclusion generally. The War Department regulations referred to in the above statement are supposed to be contained in the order made by General Otis a year ago, declaring the Chinese exclusion laws to be in force in the Philippines.

CINCINNATI CAR MEN MAY STRIKE

General Tie Up of the Lines Likely to Occur.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 25.—A committee consisting of Rosin Orr, of Detroit, secretary of the Amalgamated Association of Street Railway employes and several other street railway employes, called on President John Kilgour today and presented demands for twenty cents per hour, ten hours per day, stools for motormen to use at certain points, arbitration previous to discharges and other matters, and reinstatement of all discharged since September 20th, when a system of examinations was instituted.

President Kilgour refused to officially receive any except the employes and he would not treat with them as a committee of the Amalgamated Association, of which a chapter has recently been instituted here.

President Kilgour said he would receive committees of employes any time and present their grievances to the directors, but he would not recognize a committee of the Amalgamated Association or any representatives of it.

The gentlemen left Kilgour's office for secret conferences and there are apprehensions of a general strike.

OAKLAND WOMAN TAKES HER LIFE.

She Strangles Herself at the Stockton Asylum for the Insane.

Associated Press Dispatches by The Tribune's Special Leased Wire

STOCKTON, Sept. 25.—Lily Indorf, about 30 years of age, an inmate of the Stockton State Hospital, committed suicide at that institution yesterday afternoon by strangling herself with a strip of bedclothing which she had torn off and tied around her neck in a hard knot.

One end of the strip had been tied around the bedpost, and the body of the woman was found under the bed, where she had crawled, probably before tying the cloth around her neck. The woman had been in the asylum three times and her mother also is now an inmate of the institution.

An unmarried sister of the deceased resides in Oakland.

The verdict of the Coroner's jury was in accordance with the above facts.

The application of Mollie Campbell of Livermore, widow, two children, for relief, was referred to Supervisor Wells.

ROAD MATTERS.

A resolution was adopted in the matter of the opening of the road 3,060 paying damages as follows for land taken: W. and J. Saxoner, $29.40; J. Maloney, $11; T. Maloney, $23.80; Louis Ellenbuck, $34.40; William Campbell, $30; J. F. C. Rahmstorf, $25; Henry Rusing, $10; Mary Ivis Crocker and Kate May Dillon, $90.

The matter of the extension of High street was laid over for a week.

A requisition from the County Jailer was referred to the Building Committee.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FRANCHISES.

The following was then read:

"The undersigned respectfully petitions your honorable body to grant to itself, its successors in interest and assigns the franchise, right-of-way and permission to construct, erect and maintain the poles and wires necessary to carry a current of electricity along county road No. 1,550, commencing at the line of incorporation of the town of Livermore upon said road and running to county road No. 850, and thence to the incorporate limits of the town of Pleasanton upon the county road for the purpose of furnishing electricity for light and power in the town of Pleasanton and adjacent thereto.

"The undersigned further petitions your honorable body to advertise that an application for such franchise and privileges has been made to this board, together with a statement of the character of the franchise or privileges proposed to be granted; the term of its continuance, the route to be traversed and the date on which bids or tenders will be received for the same."

The document was signed by the Livermore Water and Power Company, by Walter C. Beatie, president.

The document was referred to the Bridge and Franchise Committee.

SAUSAL CREEK.

A communication was received from G. Knight White inclosing blue prints showing the proposed headworks for the diversion of Sausal Creek. The plans show that a portion of the culvert would be in Fruitvale within the jurisdiction of the Board of Supervisors. The communication set forth that before beginning work the consent of the board to proceed under the plans would be required.

A resolution was adopted granting the permission desired.

Supervisor Booth was authorized to build a water tank on Magnolia avenue at the Crocker tract, at a price not to exceed $150.

Supervisor Booth was authorized to purchase for the county a watering cart for use in the Piedmont road district.

WASHINGTON AVENUE.

The question of the abandonment of Washington avenue came up. Mr. Lloyd said that he had in his possession a deed to the property which he was willing to deposit with the District Attorney in escrow until the county should be able to carry out the work.

A resolution was introduced by Mr. Tarpey and adopted by the Board requiring the District Attorney to prepare a resolution for the abandonment of a part of Washington street where it crosses the tidal canal, and to present the resolution as soon as possible.

There was a discussion over the revocation of the liquor license of Borge & Cahill in Niles Canyon. Attorney Nusbaumer appeared for the defendants.

The County Surveyor said that he had investigated the matter so far as the alleged location of the saloon in the county road was concerned and that the saloon was not even near the road.

Mr. Booth wanted to know if the engineer had not been instructed to report the names of the five nearest residents to the board.

Mr. Church said that that was his intention.

It was finally agreed that Borge & Cahill would be allowed to withdraw their application for a permit to sell liquor and file a new one, which they did, and which was referred to the Judiciary Committee. The location of the saloon is within one hundred yards of the waterworks dam.

TRIAL TRIP OF THE KEARSARGE.

New Battleship Makes Seventeen Knots an Hour.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 25.—The new battleship Kearsarge left her anchorage, about four miles off Boston light, today for the trial course off Cape Ann, where she is to have her speed test today. The members of the Naval Trial Board, representatives of the Newport Ship Building and Dry Dock Company, the builders of the big vessel, and several men who had been granted the privilege went on board the battleship just before she weighed anchor. The weather was excellent at the start, the water was smooth and the wind was moderate from the southeast.

THE TRIAL BEGUN.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Sept. 25.—The Kearsarge started on her official trial off this point today and crossed the line at 10:25:10.

As the big battleship crossed the line under full headway her bow pushed up an enormous volume of water, and great waves were thrown up astern by the screws. She made good speed, however, although the tide was against her and the wind nearly abeam.

The vessel passed the Pooonac, the second mark boat, 6.6 miles from the start, at 10:50:45, short time, covering the distance in twenty-four minutes and five seconds. This shows a speed of 16.11 knots. From the shore the third mark was indistinct, but the ship appeared to have it abeam at 11:11, having taken 21 minutes, 16 seconds on this leg, which would make her speed 17.02 knots per hour. At 11:21 the big ship was lost to view in the haze.

CROSSED FINISH LINE.

ROCKPORT, Mass., Sept. 25.—The Kearsarge crossed the finish line at 2:47:10 having taken 4 hours, 20 minutes, thirty seconds for the run.

An estimate, deducting thirty minutes for turning at Cape Porpoise, shows that she exceeded 17 knots by a fraction.

Dorr, bound from Michigan City, Ind., to Chicago, was abandoned by its crew, who, by a desperate effort, succeeded in transferring themselves to one of the scows in tow of the tug. The Dorr filled with water, which piled over her deck in huge waves, and sank about eight miles off South Chicago, leaving Captain Petersen and crew of three to toss about, drenched to the skin and in momentary danger of being washed from the scow. They drifted shoreward, however, and at midnight jumped into the surf near shore and landed twenty-two miles west of Michigan City. They spent the night in the woods.

HE HAD THE LAST LAUGH.

Executor Wants to Get Rid of a Set of Teeth.

Attorney R. B. Tappan of Alameda has given another evidence as to his capabilities in the way of drawing a facetious legal document. This is instanced in the application of J. H. Bruns to be allowed to resign as executor of the estate of T. F. Hering, deceased.

The petition sets forth "that deceased left an estate consisting of tenement houses and one set of false teeth of uncertain age, and while the latter was unincumbered, the former was mortgaged to an Oakland bank for $1,200."

The petitioner then goes on to recite that since his appointment as executor his lot has not been a happy one. First, the nurse who attended deceased during his last illness brought suit to collect for her services. After this suit was defeated the physician who attended deceased brought an action for his bill. This petitioner succeeded in having materially reduced.

Then various creditors brought an action against petitioner, asking that his letters be revoked. They objected to the executor paying the interest on the mortgage before their claims had been paid.

"These objections were in part sustained by the court," says the petitioner, "but your petitioner had the last laugh and therefore laughed best."

He charged the estate about $500 fees, which were allowed, and thereby got around the said objections made to his account, although neither he nor his attorney ever received one cent for all the work done in this estate.

Petitioner states that after the bank foreclosed there was nothing left in his possession but the set of teeth. He therefore asks to be relieved of his duties as administrator.

TWO CRIPPLES FIGHT WITH THEIR CRUTCHES.

P. Cawley, a cripple, aged 45 years, was treated at the Receiving Hospital about 2:30 o'clock this morning for a badly lacerated scalp.

Cawley and another cripple, each of whom have only one leg, were returning home on Franklin street in the early hours of the morning. When they arrived opposite the Receiving Hospital they stopped and engaged in a quarrel. Presently Cawley received two blows on head from the crutch of his companion. Police Officer Sherry came along at that juncture and wanted to place the assaulting cripple under arrest. Cawley, however, said to let the man go as he did not wish to prosecute him. He also refused to tell the name of his companion. After his wounds were dressed Cawley returned to his home. Both men seemed to be under the influence of liquor.

O'BRIEN STILL BEHIND BARS.

Judge Ellsworth Will Not Release the Prisoner.

James F. O'Brien, who has been convicted of felonious assault on Miss Nina de B. Lopez of Livermore, will have to remain in confinement pending the appeal of his case to the Supreme Court.

This was the decision of Judge Ellsworth this morning after a petition for the prisoner's release on bail was signed.

Attorneys A. A. Moore and T. F. Garrity appeared for the defendant.

Chief Deputy District Attorney H. A. Melvin and Attorney M. C. Chapman appeared for the people.

The case was submitted on the testimony of Drs. W. S. Porter, J. P. Dunn and H. S. Butesu, who had made an examination of the patient's physical condition. They all agreed that young O'Brien was not in good health. He had symptoms that were indicative of consumption, but the disease had not as yet developed. They all agreed that it would be better for him outside of the jail.

During the hearing of the case Attorneys Moore and Melvin indulged in the exchange of a few remarks which were checked by the court just as they appeared to be becoming heated.

First, Mr. Melvin objected when Attorney Moore asked Dr. Porter if he would remove O'Brien from the jail if he were his own patient.

"I object to that question," said Attorney Melvin, "because the answer is obvious, and we are wasting time."

"Well, I supposed from your previous line of questions," replied Mr. Moore, "that you considered the County Jail a sanitarium."

Attorney Melvin made a sharp response and the matter was allowed to drop. After the counsel of the people had submitted the case without argument, Attorney Moore began a short statement of his case. He said that the condition of the defendant was so obvious that he was surprised that the counsel of the people offered any objection to the young man's release.

At this Mr. Melvin arose and said that he was also surprised that counsel for the defendant would make such a remark. The counsel for the people had not made any objection. They were simply doing their duty in giving a fair presentation of the case.

Attorney Moore started to come back at Mr. Melvin, when the court intervened, saying that he would have no more talk.

After consulting a decision of the Supreme Court in a similar case the court held that the danger to defendant's life was not imminent and the testimony insufficient to warrant his release.

WATSON MUST PAY THE COSTS.

Judge Greene this morning ordered James Watson to pay $50 for the taking of the deposition of his wife, Lulu Watson, whom he is suing for divorce and who is at present in Pennsylvania.

Attorney Charles W. Hughes objected to the order, and asked the court what would be done if the plaintiff could not pay the amount.

The court said that he could do as he pleased. He could dismiss the action if he wished.

Watson is employed by S. Beller on Washington street, at a salary of $12 a week. He charges his wife with intemperance. She admits that she drinks, but says her husband taught her to do so with the purpose to secure $10,000 worth of property left her by her first husband.

He cited one instance in which three manufactories had been absorbed by the American company, resulting in throwing 200 and 600 employes out of work. In another case wages had been reduced from $2.50 to $1.25 per day after consolidation. Mr. Evans said that women stood on the same footing as men in the union, voting and holding office and drawing the same wages.

MORE WATER FOR BERKELEY.

Two Companies Are Struggling for Customers.

BERKELEY, Sept. 25.—The contest between the Alameda Water Company and the Contra Costa Company has already begun, although the latter concern is not yet ready to supply water throughout the town. The fight, which was started by the Contra Costa people, does not consist of the reduction of rates, the competing concern limits its efforts to securing yearly contracts from consumers who are promised a steady supply of water, something which the Alameda Company is unable to guarantee. A number of solicitors have been employed to canvass the town, and they are meeting with considerable success. Just when the Contra Costa Company will complete the work of piping the town has not yet been announced, but it will not be delayed any longer than necessary.

NILES, Sept. 25.—A work train and crew of carpenters arrived in Niles Friday and work was begun at once on work at the railroad bridge over Alameda Creek, so that the old wooden structure may be removed and a new steel cord bridge be put in. The new structure will be of four spans, 60 feet each besides the approaches, and will give work to a large force of men several months.

The creek bed will be cleaned off and holes sunk to a solid foundation and solid piers of masonry will be built, upon which the bridge will rest. The entire work will be done without delaying the regular traffic and when completed will last for a lifetime. This is one of nine new bridges being put in on this division this summer. Another is to be built over Coyote Creek near San Jose when the crew gets through here.

The wooden bridge material is as good as new and will be taken to Winters to replace a worn-out bridge there, as the company can not secure the steel this season for a bridge and it must be replaced at once.

NEW FACTORY FOR PLEASANTON.

George A. Davis Has Purchased a Large Tract.

PLEASANTON, Sept. 25.—At last the great land deal which was spoken of in these columns, three weeks since, has come to such a head that the Bulletin is now permitted to make known the true facts in the deal and the reasons thereof.

As stated in the Bulletin before the whole transaction by George A. Davis, who has purchased the J. Sutherland place of 160 acres, the L. Hewlett property of 350 acres and the lease of the Chabot property of 1,135 acres with the prospects of buying, also other property yet under consideration.

This deal which, however, was prophesied by many to be the forerunner of some big enterprise to be established is now given us for publication and we here with give out the facts as given us.

The object of the deal is to establish a larger beet sugar factory near the Santa Rita Junction.

Beside this a large reservoir to hold many gallons of water is to be constructed near the county road near Dublin upon the property, the water from which will be utilized in the factory.

In conversation with Mr. Davis upon the subject he informs us that the factory will be placed in as soon as possible and other deals for land which are now underway will be closed as rapidly as they can.

Mr. Davis has now leased the big steam plows from Mr. Ellenthal and has placed them at work upon the lands purchased by him to plow the land and prepare the same for beet culture preparatory to the starting of the new factory.

The establishment of the factory, here means thousands of dollars to be expended, while employment will be given the unemployed and the beet growers that have for years been compelled to haul their beets from the field and load them aboard the cars will be given an opportunity to haul them direct to the home factory where they will realize as much if not more than at the present time.

Mr. Davis expects to resign from his present position at the Rancho del Valle as soon as the hop picking is over to attend to the superintending of his new enterprise.—Pleasanton Bulletin.

PIEDMONT.

The poisoning of several dogs lately in this vicinity was done, as many now believe, for a special purpose. Several chicken roosts have been robbed, and for this reason many think the noisy canine received his peace.

A shot was fired at a supposed thief by a resident the other evening. The stranger was prowling about the grounds.

LIVERMORE.

LIVERMORE, Sept. 25.—About 6:30 Saturday evening two young ladies returning from a drive in the country noticed a horse and buggy tied to a fence about a mile from town and near it a man lying on his back apparently asleep. Their first impulse was to stop and ask if he were ill but fearing he might be intoxicated they passed on to town. A short time afterward word was brought in that a man was lying dead near town. Deputy Coroner E. Horton at once drove after the body which proved to be that of Arthur Holmes. The horse and buggy was still there and on the seat was found a bottle of carbolic acid showing he had shuffled off this mortal coil by a dose of that drug. Holmes was about 28 years old, a son of Oliver Holmes who died suddenly a few weeks ago. He was the mainstay and one of the favorite sons of his mother whom he sent to Lodi with two sisters and a younger brother on Saturday's train. A note scrawled on the face and back of an envelope was found in his pocket. He begged his mother to forgive him saying it was all for the best. It is reported that since the death of his father there has been considerable strife and wrangling at home. This no doubt preyed on his mind and led to the rash act. Coroner Mehrmann will arrive on today's train and hold an inquest. The funeral will probably take place this afternoon.

Miss Nellie Boston is spending a few days in the city and Oakland.

Henry Lotz an old citizen of this place died on Saturday after a long illness. He was buried under the auspices of the order of Hermann Sons yesterday afternoon.

Willie Lowenthal came up from Stanford University on his wheel Saturday to spend a day with his parents.

Miss Sarah Waltenbeurgh returned yesterday from a brief visit to Oakland.

Theo Gier of Oakland was in town again yesterday. Mr. Gier says our beautiful climate reminds him of a hamman bath, and as he was dressed in a very light suit, carrying his coat on his arm, he evidently meant it.

The baseball game yesterday between the Cletas of San Francisco and the Livermore team was a victory for the visitors. Score, 13 to 6. It was a good game and only an even hundred in the grand stand.

The new electric light plant was started up Saturday night and was a success in every particular. The machinery worked to a charm, the light was brilliant and had the effect of turning night into day. A large number of ladies and gentlemen from the country and town carefully inspected the machinery, the lights and the extras, and nl doubt when everything is in running order it will be a grand success.

John Aylward returned yesterday from a visit to the Mechanics' fair.

C. A. Bon is superintending grape picking at his Mont Rogue vineyard.

Mans Luders is in San Francisco, a visitor at the Mechanics' Fair.

THE BENEFIT WAS A SUCCESS.

The Acme Club benefit at Oakland Park yesterday was a financial success, the largest crowd of the season being present. The entertainment was all that was promised. The vaudeville, the boxing and the grand balloon ascension constituted the day's program. Much credit is due Manager Vosmer for the able manner in which he handled the immense crowd of spectators present. The show for next Sunday promises to be up to the usual standard, which means the best show in the country for the money.

DR. COYLE TELLS OF HIS TRIP.

What He Observed Visiting Churches in Europe.

The Rev. R. F. Coyle, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, last evening delivered a sermon on the subject: "Public Worship Europe—Some Lessons and Contrasts." Dr. Coyle spoke in part as follows:

"There are three things to be noticed about the worship of these people. First, it was heartily unanimous. Everybody had a part in it. Second, it was heartily responsive. 'All the people answered amen, amen, and lifted up their hands.' Third, they were thoroughly reverent. 'They bowed their heads and worshiped with their faces toward the ground.'

"Now irreverence is a most marked characteristic of the American people. The only person I saw in all Europe who had to be asked to take off his hat within the sacred precincts of a cathedral was a native of this country. Our general reputation for lack of reverence is not an enviable one. It is time the tide turned. It is time we were learning something better or this irreverence will eat the very fibre out of our lives and lead to more disastrous consequences.

"It was my privilege while in Europe to note many marked contrasts in this sort of thing. I visited a number of Catholic churches and cathedrals, and there I always found that reverence, love and profound respect for things sacred and religious. It is easy to criticise the Catholics, and no doubt there is often room for it but there are some things about public worship that we could learn from them with profit.

"It was my good fortune to attend public worship at many prominent Protestant churches in Europe and everywhere I found in marked degree this spirit of reverence, respect and devotion. The habit so common in America of coming in late, breaking in upon the worship of God's house, is unknown in Europe, and would not be tolerated, and if people were to leave before the service was over, to catch a car or to avoid the rush at the close, it would be considered a serious offense, and an inexcusable display and irreverence and ill-breeding.

"It is unquestionable that we could with great profit adopt many of the modes of worship that obtain in Europe. We need more of the true spirit of worship that prevails there. A reverential fear of God in the inmost soul. A holy awe that will humble us and hush us in the presence of the Infinite, and keep us from profane levity and familiarity when we enter the earthly homes of the Most High is decidedly lacking among the American people."

A TRIBUTE TO THE REV. E. R. DILLE.

At the reception extended last Friday evening to Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Dille, the following address was delivered by Captain Jackson, Secretary of the Board of Public Works, and one of the best known members of the society:

"I cannot quite understand why, I, the youngest member, or rather last addition to the official board, should be asked to extend in behalf of that body a cordial welcome to our beloved Pastor and his dearly loved wife and express to them our joyous congratulations that he has returned to us from another Annual Conference, except it may be known that I loved the Doctor so much that I forsook all my early training as a Baptist—and a close communion Baptist at that—and joined what was known, to me, the 'shouting Methodists,' just to get under his teachings, and have enjoyed that great great privilege for one short year, which has wheated my appetite for more, you can possibly imagine how great would have been my dissapointment had the 'powers that be' in the last Annual Conference assigned him elsewhere. When I heard he was to return to us, well, if you had heard me, you certainly would believe I was a 'shouting Methodist,—hence it gives me very great pleasure, my dear Doctor and Mrs. Dille, to welcome you in behalf of the official board of this church, where you have by your untiring efforts and uniformly pleasant, cheerful greeting and high Christian character endeared yourselves to every member of this large church and congregation without exception. Praise God, not a dissenting feeling or opposing faction is known in this church today on the contrary, there is peace, harmony, good fellowship, all of which happy condition of things, we believe, is the result of your earnest efforts, prayers and Christian virtues. You have lifted us up, held us together and carried us bodily on your mind and heart, all of which is, I know, fully appreciated by the congregation as well as our blessed Master above.

"Now, my dear Doctor, words can only feebly express the joy in our hearts, that we have you and your most excellent lady with us another term, and I cannot imagine anything that would express to you our gratification and please you more than that God's chosen members of your flock will endeavor to profit by your excellent teaching and examples—and their experience of lost privileges and blessings by their lethargy and sleepy condition—are going to wake up, stand by you, and by the help of Almighty God, will hold up your hands while you are so earnestly interceding the Throne of Grace for their betterment and salvation of souls. We do at least appreciate the great burden you are carrying on your heart for the spiritual welfare of this church, and the statement you made last Sunday morning in your inspired sermon that you felt 'you could not go through another year without more conversions of souls.' struck deep in our hearts, and we will continually pray that we may all be in one place and accord with the Holy Spirit; that God may bless and reward you with a pentecostal time.

"Now, while you and Mrs. Dille are, and always will be, in our hearts, I want to say to this dear brother Spencer, the door of our hearts are open to you, and do most cheerfully welcome you among us. Your introduction was very favorable; you came to us highly recommended, and your first appearance at out mid-week prayer meeting, your earnest throne-reaching prayer, heart-felt testimony, won out respect and love, and we do believe our relations with you will be as pleasant as with our beloved pastor, and that you will enter heart and soul in the work with and help him all you can.

"May God's choicest, richest blessings rest on you both is the wish of the official board as well as the whole congregation."

A MINISTER'S MISTAKE

A city minister was recently handed a notice to be read from his pulpit. Accompanying it was a clipping from a newspaper bearing upon the matter. The clergyman started to read the extract and found that it began: "Take Kemp's Balsam, the best Cough Cure." This was hardly what he had expected and after a moment's hesitation he turned it over, and found on the other side the matter intended for the reading.

CALLS FOR A NEW CHARTER.

Attorney Dow Has Ordinance Ready for the Council.

City Attorney Dow has prepared the ordinance calling for a charter election. He will present the matter to the City Council. Mr. Dow has also prepared a communication which he will send to the Council. In this document he says:

"The date upon which said election shall be held is left for your honorable body to determine. Inasmuch as the provisions of the new primary law must be observed in connection with the nomination of said freeholders, I suggest that said election be held not earlier than January 20, 1900, in order that ample time may be had within which to carry out the necessary preliminaries to said election.

"The officers of election in each precinct must be apportioned equally between the two political parties which respectively cast the highest number of votes for Governor at the last general election."

The title of the proposed ordinance, which is quite a lengthy one, explains in a general way the nature of the proceedings to be taken. This reads as follows:

"An ordinance calling and providing for a special election in and for the city of Oakland, county of Alameda, State of California, to be held in said city, on —— day, the —— day of ——, 1900, for the purpose of electing a board of fifteen freeholders, who shall have been for at least five years qualified electors of said city, whose duty it shall be, within ninety days after said election, to prepare a charter for said city of Oakland, pursuant to the provisions of and in the manner provided by the constitution of the State of California, and establishing municipal election precincts for said election, appointing a board of election for each precinct and providing for notices to be given of said election."

The ordinance provides for the division of the city up into twenty-eight voting precincts and eight officers of election must be assigned to each.

It has been suggested that it might be possible to hold the proposed bond election at the same time as that of the charter election, but City Attorney Dow states that the law requires that a bond election be held distinct from any other election. It is thought it might be possible to have separate ballot boxes for the two elections and in this way save some expense.

The scores made by the three classes follow: Seniors, 48; middlers, 23; and juniors, 8.

MR. AND MRS. SMITH WILL SOON RETURN.

Dorothy Quigley, in her New York letter says:

"The majority of Californians in the East will remain over for the Dewey parade. Mr. and Mrs. Frank M. Smith, who have an ideal summer home at Shelter Island, Long Island Sound, will come to New York for the Dewey week, returning later to their home, Arbor Villa, East Oakland. The famous 'borax king' and his charming wife have been entertaining a round of house parties during the season at 'Presdeleau,' as their fine old colonial mansion at Shelter Island is called. PICNICS AT SHELL MOUND PARK.

Sunday, October 1st—Austrian Military and Benevolent Association of San Francisco.

MONDAY .....SEPTEMBER 25, 1899.

President Diaz' wife is not to participate in his visit to this country. She must have lots of confidence in her better half to let him go slumming around the United States alone with $7,000,000 spending money in his inside pocket.

People can build castles in the air at last with the knowledge that there is some sort of substantial foundation to them. A liquid air company with a capital of $10,000,000 has been formed, and its promoters are promising all kinds of dividends to those who will engage in the enterprise.

The Crockers are said to have received $13,000,000 for the sale of their Southern Pacific interests. Somehow the hoodoo number does not look half as unlucky as usual when it is dressed up in so attractive a manner. The Crockers can't be blamed, anyhow, for being willing to run chances with it.

And now it is claimed that lymph from the much-despised William goat will cure insanity as well as prolong human life. They will have to break Billy, though, of that habit of eating tin cans and old gunnysacks before many people will be willing to run the risk of assuming some of his traits by means of inoculation.

Millionaire Boardman must feel a little uneasy these days as he thinks of the outcome of the Nicholl case, for if he runs across a similar jury his bank roll might receive a $250,000 crimp. Instead of waiting for our millionaires to die and then producing a variety of widows, heirs and so forth, this breach-of-promise business has opened up an industry of vast possibilities.

"Owing to the recent national developments San Francisco has really become the front yard of the nation, instead of the back yard," remarked Benjamin Ide Wheeler, the new President of our University, to an interviewer in New York yesterday, before starting for California. That is an intelligent way of regarding the situation. No part of the world ever had better commercial possibilities than those within our reach at the present time, and we are fools if we do not take advantage of them.

That it takes "a smart man to be a fool" is shown by manlie Cheeseman's recital of how he succeeded in traveling around Oakland and to and from San Francisco on the ferry, despite the handcuffery against him and the further fact that he is well known hereabouts. However, the police should not be blamed too much—it keeps them busy trying to prevent being mistaken for footpads and held up themselves, judging by the experiences of an Oaklander the other night.

The promptness with which the Thirty-first Infantry was removed to Angel Island and there quarantined as soon as it was discovered that one of the men was suffering from smallpox was a wise move, for six more cases have developed in the same regiment, whereas the rest of the troops have had absolute immunity from the disease. But for hurrying the regiment away, there is no telling what havoc might have been created among the 15,000 men on the reservation.

The doctor who, during the past few days, has been defending a policy of assisting out of the world those who are sick and whose recovery is impossible, says that the particular stage he refers to is reached when the attending physician finds the case hopeless. He seems to overlook the point that many an individual who has been given up by his doctor has subsequently recovered and even outlived his physician. If the medical profession were infallible his argument might be fairly reasonable, but under the present conditions it is absurd.

NATIONAL GUARD REFORM.

Now that the volunteer organizations that participated in the Philippine campaign are being mustered out and are returning to their duties as National Guardsmen, the question of applying the lessons of the war in such a way that permanently beneficial results will be obtained, presents itself for consideration.

As regards the mobilization and transportation of an army to any given point, it does not appear as if much could be added to our present system, for our recent experiences, even though they caught us unprepared, found us fully able to cope with that feature of the situation. The question of camp improvement is one that we have met and answered, for the unwholesome and unsanitary conditions that attended the first stages of our camp life have been entirely removed, as is shown by the model arrangements now in vogue at the Presidio and other central points.

Where the main work is to be done, therefore, is with the men themselves. Although they behaved gallantly in the field it cannot be denied that there was a great lack of discipline and, in many instances, of soldierly knowledge. The annual encampments of Guardsmen in future should not be regarded in the sense of picnics, but should, instead, be conducted on absolutely military lines. There can be enough time set apart for recreation to compensate for the hard work that comes up, but both officers and men should keep before them the fact that the main object of these gatherings is to bring about a fitness for service in the field in the hour of need, and they should be willing to make sacrifices accordingly. It is said that the present administration will not, in the future, permit any volunteer organizations to go into active service without regular army officers at their head, and this policy is being pursued in the formation of the new army, as is shown by the offering to all who served as volunteer Colonels in the late war commissions as Majors in the new regiments. There is much good sense in this, for however brave and popular an officer may be, it is palpable that he cannot be as good a soldier as the man who makes it his business and who has had the benefit of a course at West Point.

The reorganization and future of the National Guardsmen in the various States may, in fact, be said to furnish a multitude of problems of exceeding interest, and if the contemplated Federal legislation is secured, whereby an absolutely uniform system is followed, more effective results are naturally inevitable. Our volunteer organizations cannot be placed upon too high a basis, for even though a much increased standing army has been obtained, they will always remain what may well be termed the military backbone of the nation.

THE MINING CONGRESS.

In the convention of the American Institute of Mining Engineers which opened today across the bay and will continue until Wednesday evening, California is honored by the gathering of the representative men of what is in many ways the greatest industry in the world. The delegates are noted scientists and experts from all parts of the United States and Europe, a number of famous university professors being in the party that journeyed here in a special train to participate in the proceedings.

The application of scientific principles to mining is responsible for the greater part of the wealth that is now poured upon the world for the days have almost gone when the prospector can sit down on the edge of a stream and pan out the virgin gold, the only opportunities in that line being in new and unexplored regions such as the Klondike and Cape Nome. The extracting of the precious metals from low-grade ore is now one of the principal problems of the age and the vast strides in that regard are shown by the enormous profits being made in localities where fifty years ago the work would not have paid the expenses of its milling.

Deep-shaft and hydraulic mining also furnish abundant material for the efforts of the engineer and the old-time prospector who relied entirely upon "croppings" for knowledge that a ledge was not far away is now replaced by the scientist who bases his operations upon a thorough study of geological strata and find configurations tending to call a centering of mineral. The '49ers look with almost wonder upon this new generation and new form of miners that has sprung up so noticeably into evidence during the past quarter of a century and though at first inclined to regard them as "scientific fools" are now willing to admit that they can achieve far more than could even be dreamed of under the old system. Mining engineering is a fact now acknowledged as one of the most valuable and most important forms of knowledge in the world and the fact that in South Africa, salaries for members of this profession reach as high as $50,000 a year shows how highly such work is appreciated.

The members of the Institute will find much to interest them during their stay in this State, for California is one of the greatest producers of precious metal in the world and mining here is carried on in almost all its variety. The Jeffersonites have already been tendered a hearty welcome which will be prolonged during their stay here for the hospitality and good-heartedness of our mining men is proverbial and they are determined that their guests shall carry away naught but pleasant recollections of the "land of gold."

It may not be generally known that diamonds have undergone an advance of about 3½ per cent since the opening of the present year, the playing out of the Brazilian fields being the cause thereof. Should war ensue in the Transvaal they will take another upward bound, for with the Kimberly fields closed down the Indian mines will be the only ones left, and they are not particularly productive.

The foolish fight over the location of the Grand Army men in the Dewey parade has been ended by awarding the veterans the place of honor in line. They deserve it, for the heroes of '98 can well afford to stand aside and doff their caps as the fast-decreasing band of veterans of the war that saved the Union go marching by.

FUNERAL OF JUDGE STANLY.

Simple Services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

Every seat in Sa Paul's Episcopal church yesterday afternoon was occupied by neighbors, friends and visitors from afar, moved by the common impulse of paying tribute to the memory of Judge John A. Stanley. Among them were prominent members of the bar from San Francisco, and from all portions of Alameda county. A very interesting contingent in the audience consisted of a delegation of fifteen men who for a long period had been in the employ of Judge Stanley on the Stanley ranch, his beloved and often-visited Napa county country seat. Eight of these acted as pall bearers. They were: Superintendent H. A. Pellet, Martin Zuaini, Peter Zanini, Angelo Clerici, Joseph Ubaldi, C. Bellerini, F. Cazzi, Louis Biardy, M. Telesco, C. Bosso, John Many, S. Brocco, T. Flannagan, V. Nuzoni.

The others in attendance were: J. W. Whitty, George Hendricks, A. Farini and E. Carbone, friends from Napa, also attended the services.

These were the honorary pall bearers, Judge E. W. McKinstry, Judge John Garber, C. D. Allen, Warren Olney, Harry W. Bradley, George H. Wheaton, Shafter Howard and Henry Rogers.

The casket was literally buried beneath beautiful floral tributes, among which were broken wheels, broken columns, pillows and crosses.

The only music was a solemn organ dirge. There were no words of eulogy. The service was the grand burial ritual of the Episcopal church.

This was conducted by the rector of St. Paul's church, Rev. Robert Ritchie, in conjunction with Rev. Dr. John Bakewell, rector of Trinity church.

Only an imperative engagement elsewhere prevented Bishop Nichols from taking part in this funeral.

The services at the grave in Mountain View cemetery were severely simple, in obedience to the injunctions of the deceased. They were attended only by members of the family, near relatives and the pall bearers.

HAVE MOVED ACOSS THE BAY.

The removal of H. K. Belden and family to San Francisco has caused considerable speculation as to why the change was made.

The handsome home of the Beldens on Lake and Oak streets has been deserted, and the family, which has been prominent in society, now occupy apartments in a fashionable hotel across the bay.

Some of the neighbors and persons who claim to know say that the visit of the ax-wielder to the family residence in July and the narrow escape of Mr. Belden on that occasion is the true reason of the removal.

The mysterious midnight visitor has never been found, and although some shrewd detectives have been working on the case, the motive of the assault has never been cleared up.

The mystery has cast a shadow over the family, and precautions will now be taken to protect Mr. Belden from a repeated assault.

PLANS WILL BE SENT TO EUROPE.

The splendid plans for the University of California of the future, obtained for it by the Phebe Hearst international architectural competition, are to be exhibited in the East and probably afterwards in Europe.

The designs will be prepared for shipment for this purpose at the close of the Mechanics' Fair in San Francisco, where they are now on exhibition and are attracting universal attention. The University authorities, together with those in charge of the recent contest, wish to present to the world an opportunity of viewing these plans for the grandest collection of educational buildings thus far contemplated by the world. Bernard Maybeck of the University and Lester M. Hale have decided to store in the library on the campus the rejected plans in the competition which were on exhibition in the ferry building.

Monsieur Bennard, the winning architect, whose plans will probably mould the great work of architectural construction in Berkeley, has left France for California to view the site of the proposed college and halls, which site it will be remembered he has never seen.

WILL WELCOME THE VOLUNTEERS.

In pleasant partnership with the Daughters of Liberty, the Junior General George A. Custer Council, No. 22, will give an entertainment and dance to the returned volunteers and to all returned members of the United States Hospital Corps. This notable entertainment will take place at Fraternal Hall on the evening of Tuesday, September 26th. A particularly enjoyable program has been promised and a large attendance is expected. All members of the Council are invited to attend and bring friends. All the returned volunteers of the late war, including the members of the Hospital Corps, are especially invited and will be made the guests of honor. The committee of arrangements are Mrs. Dr. M. E. Stahl, Mrs. E. White, Mrs. Strawbridge, J. P. Thomas, Herman Paine, Dr. J. C. Gilbertson.

VISITED HIS WIFE AND GOT INTO TROUBLE.

J. C. Schmidt was brought to the County Jail last night, charged with the larceny of a watch and assault, on complaint of his brother-in-law, Harry Maynard.

It seems Schmidt and his wife have been living apart for some time, but yesterday Schmidt went out to Maynard's home in Fruitvale to see his wife, who is stopping there. Maynard resented the visit, and the trouble began. Schmidt was accused of stealing a watch, and as he would not give it up, Officer Quinlan was sent for. Maynard states that Schmidt drew a pistol and threatened to shoot him, in the course of the dispute. Schmidt stoutly resisted arrest, but was finally overpowered.

MRS. WITCHER WANTS DIVORCE.

Not Willing to Live in the Gold Fields of North.

Miss Gertrude A. Witcher, whose marriage with Edwin J. Witcher five years ago was one of the social events of the season, has now begun proceedings for divorce.

It appears from the complaint, drawn by Attorney H. C. McPike, that Witcher has left his young wife alone for over two years while he has been searching for gold in the frozen north. His success in this direction has not been ascertained. On several occasions, however, he has written to his young wife asking her to join him in Alaska. This the young wife did not see fit to do. The prospect of burying herself away in the icy regions of the north, where she would have to subsist on the plainest of fares and with no social life was more than she could think of undertaking. Witcher in turn refused to leave the gold fields to return to his wife. The result is the suit that has just been filed. Mrs. Witcher asks that she be granted a reasonable amount for alimony and counsel fees.

Mrs. Witcher is the stepdaughter of Joseph Costigan of 1305 Franklin street. Prior to their marriage, and for some time afterward, Mr. and Mrs. Witcher figured quite prominently in the society functions held in this city. They lived happily together until about two years ago, when the husband became smitten with the Klondike fever, that was prevalent at that time.

AN OLD CASE FINALLY SETTLED.

The Supreme Court of California Saturday last in banc handed down a decision in an Oakland case on appeal which will doubtless be of considerable interest to the legal fraternity. The decision was rendered in the case of Franz & Fuchs, the East Oakland wine cellar men, vs. Beller.

This case was first decided in favor of the plaintiffs in March, 1896. It has since been pending in the Supreme Court. It was an action for breach of contract in restraint of trade. The defendant, in selling his business to the plaintiffs in 1890 had agreed, under a penalty of $2,000, as liquidated damage, not to engage in a similar business within a radius of ten miles from the place sold.

The statute, however, declares that no contract in restraint of trade can be made to extend beyond one county, and as ten miles from the place sold embraced Contra Costa as well as Alameda counties, the question arose as to whether the plaintiffs were entitled to a recovery.

It was discovered that no similar case had been decided in this county, and the only judgment to which the court could look as a precedent was that of Price vs. Green, which was decided more than three centuries ago, or in the year 1602, the decision having been handed down in London.

The views expressed by the court in that old-time case were adopted by Judge Ellsworth when the Fuchs-Beller case was tried in this county and this view has now been sustained by the Supreme Court by affirming the judgment of the Superior Court of this county and deciding all points in favor of the plaintiffs and respondents.

The judgment now amounts to $3,000, with interest and costs, which will have to be paid to Franz & Fuchs.

The attorney for the complainant was Alfred Fuhrman of San Francisco.

A DISCUSSED QUESTION.

"Are appearances worth keeping up?" is the question being discussed by a London newspaper. If the practice of mankind is any test, undoubtedly they are. Primitive instinct forces us to hide from our neighbors as long as we can any undesirable change in our worldly fortunes. As in military strategy, a commander in a tight place does his best to make the enemy believe that he possesses thrice his actual numbers, so in social strategy the generalissimo takes the most elaborate precautions to deceive observers as to the state of the family banking account or larder. This demands a kind of heroism which rarely finds its way into history. In one of Arthur Morrison's "Tales of Mean Streets" were two gentlewomen who kept up appearances while they slowly starved. It never occurred to them to ask for parish relief or appeal to the charity of their neighbors. Gentlewomen of this type die, but never surrender.

Such stoical pride is very different from the vulgarity which lives in a style far beyond its means for the sake of social credit; but to that credit every one makes sacrifice, according to their lights. One correspondent of the paper relates that when his wife was famishing she had to wear expensive clothes, and that when a friend of the club asked him for the loan of a sovereign he had to borrow it from an uncle. Here there is a certain lack of address. If the wife has credit enough to obtain the clothes she might have cajoled the butcher. With a fashionable dressmaker one need not starve.

Unhappily the pressure of a social law does not sharpen everybody's wits. To keep up appearances on nothing a year you must have genius like Becky Sharp's. In any case, you need sufficient talent to evade the friend at the club, who, taking you for a man of means, wants to borrow a sovereign. The eccentric millionaire who haggles with a cabman about a shilling, and when he asks a friend to dinner gives him a cheap table-d'hote in a stuffy hotel, is not beloved, but he maintains his social credit. Having by a little adroitness made a reputation for wealth, you can keep friendly borrowers at arm's length by eccentric meanness, while you overawe them with your supposed millions. A less ambitious plan is to look the borrower in the face with moisture in each eye and tell him you have just parted with the last spare sovereign to an old school fellow with a large family.

CAPPED THE CLIMAX.

Smith had worked off the Egyptian chestnut of the philosopher who accidentally tipped over a small water bottle just as he dropped asleep, and, after dreaming a forty-eight column dream, awoke to find the water not yet all run out. Jones had told his famous story of the man who was overcome by slumber just as the clock was striking midnight, dreamed a long, complicated dream that took him half of next day to tell to his junior clerk, who couldn't get away, and awoke to hear the last three of the twelve strokes.

Cooper had sat silently listening, says the New York Telegraph, but now he braced himself up manfully, and, with a look of desperate resolve, he began: "I had an even more wonderful experience than those you have been relating, gentlemen, myself. I had been out interviewing strikers, and when I got into the office and handed in my last bit of copy I was dead beat out. I came over in my corner and dropped into a chair, and was asleep before I struck the cushion.

"I straightway began to dream. I lived a whole lifetime, from a little babe to old age. Every step of my education, every difficult lesson, was reviewed in detail, even to intricate geometrical problems. I fell in love, courted and married three different girls, committed a murder, lived through every incident of a long trial and served a sentence of twenty years, every day of which was distinct and full of minute incidents of prison life.

"I sailed on a three years' voyage around the world, and in the last month of the last year was wrecked on a desert island, captured by cannibals, nearly crushed by a boa-constrictor, rescued by the Russians, only to be sentenced to Siberia, from which I escaped and wandered through the Arctic regions for months; did splendid work as a reporter on a newspaper for several years, and the editor was just going to make me his assistant when I suddenly awoke. Some one had placed a pin in that chair and I had dreamed that entire dream between the moment when I started to sit down and when I struck that pin."

And Smith and Jones arose, put on their coats in beaten silence and went home to bed.

DEVIL'S ISLAND.

In the International Magazine is an account of the Italian patriot, Paola Tibaldi, who was banished during the second Napoleonic empire to the spot which has lately been the prison of Dreyfus. "This accursed island," the Italian says, "throughout its extent of five-eighths of a mile in length and 1,640 feet in width, consists almost entirely of bare, unfruitful rocks. The arid soil, on which even the grass withers for lack of nourishment, and only a few scattered bushes grow, the foliage of which is parched and withered by the pitiless sun, showed the man who was to live there the sufferings to which he was doomed.

The resident of the island has to fight continually heat prostration and laziness, even in the most scorching days, for mental or physical depression means death, and to compete with the lurking fever, the drowsiness which attends summer must be constantly fought off. It is so hot during the four months' rainless season that stones mar the hand like red-hot iron if touched, and eggs brought from the shade into the sun burst on account of the sudden decomposition.

For eight months rain pours down, making it impossible to go out of doors, indeed, suicidal, for a fever will result.

A special feature, and perhaps the only agreeable one of the island, is, or rather was, when the few trees that struggled for existence there had not been felled, the presence of certain very large lizards which lived in the trees and were killed with stones by the prisoners, to be eaten. They were really a delicacy, and when boiled or roasted afforded a rich, palatable dish, somewhat similar in taste to pheasants.

You can generally get a point on life by making yourself familiar with the bee

The average clergyman is not a healthy man. There are many reasons that contribute to make him delicate. He leads a sedentary life. He doesn't take sufficient exercise. Just the same he is a hard-working man. He takes too much trouble about other people's troubles to trouble much about his own. He thinks too much about other sick people to look after his own health. The result is that the hard-working clergyman becomes a semi-invalid early in life.

There is no necessity for this. A clergyman adds nothing to his usefulness, but greatly detracts from it, by neglecting his health. If a man, be he clergyman or layman, will resort to the right remedies just as soon as he feels out of sorts, and knows that he is a little bilious, or that his liver is torpid, or his digestion is out of order, he will remain healthy and robust and add much to his usefulness and many years to his life. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the appetite, makes digestion and assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver, purifies the blood and tones the nerves. It is the greatest of all known blood-makers and flesh-builders. It cures 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption and diseases of the air passages. Thousands who were given up by the doctors and had lost all hope have testified to their complete recovery under this marvelous medicine. It is the discovery of an eminent and skillful specialist, Dr. R. V. Pierce, for thirty years chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. All medicine dealers sell it.

"Eight years ago I was taken with what my doctor called liver complaint," writes N. E. Kendrick, Esq., of Campton, Grafton Co., New Hampshire. "I began doctoring for it, taking sar-aparillas and other medicines. Last February I had a bilious attack, and I could not sit up long enough to eat. I began taking Dr. Pierce's medicines. I have taken one bottle of 'Golden Medical Discovery' and one vial of 'Pleasant Pellets.' I find no other medicine equal to yours in helping me."

Without an equal for constipation and biliousness—Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

The teachers of the Oakland school department must be progressive. The following notice from Superintendent McClymonds shows how the Board of Education feels on this subject: "The rules of the Board of Education have been amended so as to require principals to answer this question both in reference to the teachers under their charge and themselves: 'What, if anything, is the teacher doing to improve himself or herself in pedagogy?' New blanks, including this question, have been prepared and will be sent herewith."

STOPPED WEDDING OF DAUGHTER.

Pretty Grace Curtner Falters at the Threshold of the Altar.

The wedding of Henry C. Henion, a senior at Stanford University, and Miss Grace Curtner of Warm Springs, has been indefinitely postponed. A week ago the license was procured by Henion and the preparations for the wedding were being rapidly carried forward. The marriage was to have taken place on Saturday, but at the last moment decorations were torn down and the announcement was made that the marriage has been indefinitely postponed.

Miss Curtner is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Curtner, wealthy residents of Washington township.

Henion is the youngest son of a highly respected pioneer family of Warm Springs.

No explanation of the sudden change has been given out, but it is thought that the young lady's parents objected to the wedding at this time as Henion had no way of supporting a wife and had several months of study before his graduation.

NO EXPLANATION.

This morning young Mr. Curtner was interviewed by a TRIBUNE reporter.

"The announcement that the wedding of Miss Curtner is postponed leaves the affair rather in the air so far as her friends are concerned," remarked the reporter.

"Yes," said Mr. Curtner, "and it will remain in the air so far as an explanation is concerned."

"Do the members of the family desire to make an explanation?"

"We have no explanation to make to the public. The wedding is all off. That is all the explanation to be made."

LARGER MAINS ARE DEMANDED.

City Attorney Prepares an Ordinance for the Council.

The great danger from fire to which the outlying districts of the city are subjected by the two-inch water mains which the water companies have put in has caused the City Council to take steps to compel the putting in of larger mains in the future.

According to instructions City Attorney Dow has prepared the following ordinance, which will be introduced at the next meeting of the Council:

"Be it ordained by the City Council of the City of Oakland, as follows:

"Section 1. It is hereby determined and declared that all water mains hereafter laid in the public streets of the city of Oakland for the purpose of supplying the city of Oakland or its inhabitants with fresh water shall be of sufficient capacity to properly supply with water all hydrants or fire plugs connected therewith when in use in case of fire; and it is further determined and declared, and found to be a fact, that water mains of less than four (4) inches in diameter are inadequate and have not sufficient capacity to so supply such hydrants or fire plugs in such cases.

"Section 2. It is hereby declared unlawful for any person, firm or corporation engaged in supplying said city or its inhabitants with fresh water to hereafter lay water mains in such public streets of less than four (4) inches in diameter.

"Section 3. Every person, firm or corporation violating any provision of this ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction thereof shall be punished by a fine of not less than fifty dollars nor more than one hundred dollars, and in case such fine be not paid shall be imprisoned in the city prison at the rate of one day for each two dollars of the fine so imposed and remaining until paid.

"Section 4. Each day's maintenance of a water main in a public street laid down in violation of this ordinance shall be deemed a separate offense and shall be punishable as such.

"Section 5. This ordinance shall take effect immediately."

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A special to the Times from Fall River, Mass., says:

If anything more were needed to prove conclusively that the Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co. deal is beaten, a circular sent out by the directors of the Union Cotton Manufacturing Company has furnished it. Mr. Brayton, treasurer of this corporation, is the recognized leader of the men in the Brayton interest when practical matters in connection with the mills are concerned.

The Union is the strongest of the Brayton mills, with the possible exception of the Durfee. The directors are positively against giving options at the desired price. They make a very full statement of the condition of the corporation. This statement practically closes any possible connection with Barrow, Wade, Guthrie & Co., with a combination of cloth mills, unless the firm comes in again with much higher prices and undeniable backing.

The public interest has now returned to the local combination. No exact plan has been determined upon by the promoters. Some favor one corporation organized under Massachusetts law, others favor a sort of local trust, which will allow the present corporations to retain their present corporate existence.

The Mazet Committee Investigating New York Judges.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Mazet Committee took up today the subject of contributions by judicial candidates for campaign expenses and examined several judges of this county. The witnesses, who had contributed from $4,000 to $10,000 each for the purpose indicated, were unanimous in saying that the fact had no influence upon them in their judicial capacity. As to the propriety of the practice there was a division of opinion, though the majority expressed a willingness to bear a proportion of the cost of the election. Chairman Mazet said that the committee wishes to learn the views of the judges on the question of the propriety of a law forbidding candidates for the judiciary to contribute to campaign funds.

AN ANGELENO DROWNED.

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 25.—A young man named Will Rogers, employed by the San Gabriel Electric Company, was drowned in the lake in Hollenbeck park, Boyle Heights, late last night. He and some companions were riding in a peculiar craft called a bicycle boat. The boat was overloaded and sank. It was at first supposed that all those on board, including three ladies, got safely ashore, but some minutes later it was discovered that Rogers was missing. His body was found under the boat.

It is claimed that he stole a guitar from a man named Dunning last June.

The Island Ruined by Earthquakes and Hurricanes.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—Consul Ayme reports to the State Department from Guadaloupe that the loss of property from the recent tropical hurricane amounts to at least $5,000,000. Forty deaths and over 200 seriously wounded are reported from various parts of the island. The city is a mass of wreckage, while the harbor front is lined with the debris of large and small boats. The Consul says that the fruit crop is a total loss, and that famine threatens the island. He says the series of misfortunes which the island has passed through—earthquakes, destructive fires and a financial crisis—probably will force the colony to appeal to the outside world for assistance.

STAGNATION IN MONEY MARKET.

War Scare Depresses English Stock Exchange.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Times' London financial correspondent cables:

We are suffering from an acute spasm of military dementia, a disease to which modern empires seem peculiarly liable. The consequence is that financial business of all kinds is suffering from a bad set-back. Whereas during the seven first months of the year new joint stock undertakings were poured on the market every week in scores, now none at all appear of the slightest importance. Probably their absence is but a slight misfortune, for they are mostly jury-built, like London houses, but Stock Exchange business is just as bad.

Not since the months following the crisis of 1890 has there been such a stagnation as now exists all over the market. The public simply refuses to deal, and what the jobbers and bankers occupy their time with is trying to shift each his load on another's back.

In the process prices dwindle and we are in danger of a crisis from inanition unless the cloud lifts soon. In short, until this wretched wrangle with the Boers is settled one way or another our public cannot even be persuaded to buy American railroad stocks.

But, politics apart, the English Stock Exchange would not have much heart for buying at present. Money bothers us because it threatens to become dearer than we like. Europe does not frighten us much, because no great State has the power to abstract large amounts of our gold, but you do bother us most decidedly. We know that you are able to take whatever amount of gold you require, and should a New York demand arise coincidentally with shipments of sovereigns to the Cape and a stoppage, partial or complete of the Rand's monthly supply, our mess would be considerable. As matters stand, many bankers now urge an advance in the bank rate to 4 per cent forthwith, because the market rates are all over the present minimum. In fact, some discount houses are now disposed to ask 3¾ per cent on three months paper, and bankers prefer to lend their balances at 2½ per cent for weeks rather than buy bills at 3½ per cent. The actual market discount rate yesterday was barely 3⅝ per cent, but the Bank of England was doing most of the business.

There is nothing very terrible in all this, it may be said, and that is true enough in one sense. Consider, however, the position of our Stock Exchange. It worked prices up during the long years of 2 per cent money until the great bulk of the best classes of our securities could not be bought to pay 3 per cent. Scarcely any among the common stocks on our great railway companies yield today 3½ per cent to investment buyer. Let money then rule for many months at 4 or 5 per cent, as it has done lately, and great pressure to liquidate, with the inevitable accompaniment of lower prices must ensue. But lower prices mean exhausted bankers' margins and much mischief in many directions. No wonder, therefore, that our market is very nervous and disposed to exaggerate dangers ahead.

From one point of view the Bank of England looks much stronger now than it did when the trouble of 1890 befell us. Then we thought of ourselves shielded from every form of adversity when the banking reserve stood as high as £10,000,000 above that ancient safety figure.

The risks of international banking business force us to look more carefully at our bullion reserves, and the more we look the less is our position relished. We possess only about $28,000,000 in gold in excess of the amount in Bank of England notes in the hands of the public, and £27,000,000 out of £22,000,000 notes held in reserve is mere paper issued upon government security, partly government debt some two centuries old. We might easily lose £8,000,000 of gold in the next few months under the conditions described, and then the convertibility of bank notes begins to be in danger. In self-protection, our large joint stock banks would endeavor to exchange the notes now held by them for gold coin, thereby aggravating the trouble, until our credit system might be threatened with a deadlock.

P. A. COX TALKS ABOUT J. MASSIE.

Oakland, Cal., September 25th, 1899.

Editor Tribune, Sir:—My attention has been called to a statement in the OAKLAND TRIBUNE of September 23d wherein it appears that one J. Massie said before the Police Commissioners when Officer Cox had his hearing that I said to him (Massie) that "I would be willing to put up any money that might be required to keep the matter from coming before the Commissioners." I take this opportunity to brand the statement of Massie as an unqualified falsehood. I never made any such statement to Massie, or to anyone else, and never thought of such a thing.

Respectfully yours,
P. A. COX.

ALAMEDA

SOLDIERS WERE WELL RECEIVED.

Volunteers are Pleased With the Treatment in the Encinal.

ALAMEDA, Sept. 25.—If there was anything left undone Saturday night to add to the welcome extended by Alameda to her soldier boys, no one knows what that occasion was. Certainly no more heartier or more enthusiastic welcome could have been extended to them.

The reception was an admirably managed affair. There was a spontaneous outburst of approval from all quarters when the celebration was suggested, and the determination to impress upon the boys that the welcome was sincere and that the city was really glad that they were home again from the war pervaded the atmosphere of the Encinal City. Welcome was in the air. The perfume of the flowers breathed a welcome and the citizens went home hourse from shouting. The program consisted of a public demonstration at the Thompson grounds and a banquet to the soldier boys at Armory Hall.

The parade formed on Park street. The Alameda Concert Band led the way, followed by the committee which had been intrusted by the citizens with arranging the details of the reception. Next came Company G, in command of Company M. W. Simpson, acted as an escort of honor to the returned heroes. The volunteers to whom the welcome was extended consisted of the following members of the First California Regiment: Major Charles L. Tilden, Captain J. W. Dumbrell, Sergeant J. W. Hawks, Corporal A. P. Smiley, E. D. Crowley, F. W. Field, E. H. Field, F. A. Louis, J. P. Marshall, O. C. Meyer, F. L. Crosby, D. F. de Bernardi, Louis Graham, F. A. Bardewell, Rushton McConnell, Ed Anderson and W. B. Sedgley.

The march was along Park street to Central avenue, to High street, to the Thompson grounds, where the first formal words of welcome were extended to the boys who had worn the blue.

The hall itself was decorated with flags, bunting and greenery. Young ladies from the Native Daughters, Degree of Pocahontas, Companions of the Forest and United Artisans waited on the tables.

The list of toasts proposed by Toastmaster Charles L. Weller and the responds were: "Our County," Hon. E. W. Maslin; "Our Soldier Guests," Hon. B. K. Taylor; "The Volunteers," Major C. L. Tilden; "Our Honored Dead," to be responded to with "taps," the audience rising and in silence; "Our State," Hon. Joseph R. Knowland; "The Ladies," A. H. Suzzallo.

Following are the names of the young ladies and the organizations they represented, who assisted in waiting on the banquet tables:

The Misses Lorinda Hickman, Louise Fitzgerald, Julia Hogan, Alma Boehmer, Augusta Schumann, Native Daughters of the Golden West; the Misses Hattie McDonnell, Minnie Anderson, Kitty La Fon, Amy Cole and Olive Cook, Degree of Pocahontas, Improved Order of Red Men; the Misses A. Born, M. Kruger, Companions of the Forest; the Misses Cotter, B. Hoffman, Metzger, Mrs. Fonda and Mrs. Galbraith, Ladies of the United Artisans.

The committee on finance and auditing consists of C. L. Robinson, B. G. Brown, Arthur Mock, J. R. Knowland and Chas. H. Smith. They will meet tomorrow evening at the Recorder's court room and will approve bills. All bills must be before them at that time. Bills may be presented to any member of the committee or may be left at Riley's drug store.

A CARD.

The chairman of the executive committee of the soldiers' reception desires, in justice to a most efficient worker, to state that the whole credit of the designating and execution of the banquet hall is due to W. W. Willis.

His time was contributed without pay. The only assistance that he received was that of paid employes working under his instruction.

This statement seems to be called for by reason of the credit that was, by a speaker at the banquet, inadvertently given to others.

The decoration of the hall did not include that of the tables, which came under the supervision of Mrs. Mandler.

Serious Charge.

J. H. Buchanan, a painter, who has been living near Encinal station, is detained in the city prison under circumstances that may result in a serious crime being charged against him. He was taken into custody yesterday forenoon by H. Engel and Charles Kluepfer, who hustled Buchanan into a buggy on High street near Thompson's grounds and drove him to the city prison, where he was turned over to the officer in charge.

Henry Schuler's Death.

Henry Schuler died yesterday morning about 9 o'clock at his home, 531 Central avenue, aged 72 years, six months and thirteen days. His death was due to dropsical troubles, from which he had been ailing for some time past.

Mr. Schuler was born in Germany and came to America when a young man, arriving in California early fifty years ago. He was known in Sonora and Tuolumne counties, where he resided before coming to Alameda about twenty years since. On his arrival here he embarked in the brewing business, of which he made a success, being the owner and proprietor of the Palace Brewery at the West End near Second avenue station.

His was a blunt but kindly disposition and he was respected for his honesty in business dealings.

Deceased was the father of William F., Lawrence L., Mrs. B. Hulse and the late John M. Schuler.

He was a member of Tuolumne Lodge No. 8, F. and A. M., and his funeral, to be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, will be conducted under the auspices of Oak Grove Lodge No. 215, F. and A. M., of this city. Interment will be in Mountain View Cemetery.

Tennis Surprise.

There was something of a surprise at the California Tennis Club's courts yesterday. Sidney Haslett, one of the Alameda Club's good men, was a visitor, and was persuaded to try conclusions with one of Professor Joe Daily's understudies, Al Rosenberg. The Alameda man was confident at first, but he was absolutely dazed at the end of the match, when he found that the youngster had "put it over him" in five straight sets. Young Rosenberg is a pupil at the Lowell High school, and he will give McGavin and Hooper a rub in the try-out for the Academic League Tournament next Saturday.

Cricket Game.

The Alamedas and Pacifics played their last pennant match on the Webster street cricket grounds yesterday. The game was a well-contested one and resulted in a victory for Alameda. The score was 122 to 107.

Funeral of Mrs. McQuesten.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary McQuesten was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the residence of her son, Dr. Chas. McQuesten, 1529 Union street. The Rev. Dr. T. J. Lacey preached the sermon. Interment was in Mountain View Cemetery.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—James O'Connell, president of the International Machinists, who had been a delegate to the British Trades Congress meeting held in Plymouth, England, spoke to the Central Federated Union of its experiences and observations at the Congress and among the working classes in England. He did not have a high opinion of them, and said he was glad he was an American and lived in the United States.

The condition of the English workingmen and working children, he said, was deplorable. He saw the women going about in clogs, dressed in men's clothes, in blacksmith and other shops, wielding the sledgehammers with the men. The difference of sex seemed to be entirely lost sight of.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A special to the Times-Herald from Dorchester, Nebraska, says:

Winding willow withes about her neck until she strangled herself, Mrs. H. Steinheider ended her life at her home, two miles east of town. Ill-health was the cause of her suicide. Mr. Steinheider had come to town and during his absence the woman went to a cluster of willow saplings which fringed a pond about 200 yards from the house and wound the supple boughs around her neck. Throwing her weight backward she leaned until she choked to death. A neighbor found her dead, with hands still clutching the ends of the boughs which she employed to commit suicide.

HE SPEAKS FOR THE CHILDREN.

Supt. Charles H. Hughes Would Provide a Fine Public Playground.

Charles C. Hughes, Superintendent of Schools of Alameda, has the following to say about the public playgrounds in the California municipalities:

The public playground is worthy of serious consideration by municipalities. It can be made as valuable to the community as the public library. Several cities have realized this and made splendid beginnings. A playground would require the purchase of a piece of property large enough for the erection of a well-equipped gymnasium, for space to lay out baseball and football fields; tennis and handball courts, a swimming tank and room for the numerous games that boys and girls delight to play.

Just as it is important that a trained librarian should have charge of the purchase and distribution of a city's books, so should the playground be under the direction of a skilled supervisor. The duties of the physical instructor should be to direct the play of the children, to conduct systematic gymnasium work and correct as far as possible physical defects. The children should be examined by the director and a record kept in order to determine the amount and kind of exercise each should have.

The grounds might be made a large public park, or might be open to actual residents only and cards of admission issued, using the plan adopted by the public library.

It is not hard to discover what the mission of the playground would be. It would gather from the streets and vacant lots the children who are endeavoring to get the recreation which their growing bodies demand, and who are not unusually getting it in an atmosphere of vulgarity and cigarette smoking. The moral side of the idea is undoubtedly very strong. The vacant lot or street corner hero is too often the one deserving least the emulation of his fellows, the boy who will not swear or smoke is too often considered a booby or a coward. Left to themselves there is quarreling and fighting and a cultivation of course manners. This is due to ignorance of what true manly sport means; they are left to their own devices and the bully becomes the leader. They lack a guide, the manly influence of one whose business it is to see that their games are heartily enjoyed and all discord eliminated.

The director of the playground would receive them, teach them interesting games, and by example so fill them with manly enthusiasm, that vulgarity and the cigarette would be forgotten.

Undirected sports of children are often excessive and harmful. All recreation and exercise should be properly regulated to be beneficial. The future of a community depends to a great extent upon the kind of children it brings up, and it does not seem unreasonable that the city should provide a suitable place where well-directed physical development would be assured.

Education is not alone book knowledge; that is the intellectual side. A strong vigorous body and sound moral development are absolutely necessary to success and advancement in life. None of us can deny this truth, yet how tardy we are in breaking away from one-sided instruction and endeavoring to educate the whole child. It is true that in our cities the public school is often so situated that it cannot give due attention to the physical side, and the moral side can be only abstractly cultivated. The child needs robust, concrete example, plenty of room and sympathetic interest in his games.

It might be well to make the playground a part of the public school system in order to direct the child's education harmoniously. Many children are more in need of physical exercise than book knowledge, and it would be the duty of teacher and physical director to work together with such pupils.

A playground such as suggested would not be more expensive than the average public park with its beautiful lawns and plants hemmed in by warnings to "keep off the grass" and "please do not pick the flowers." It would be more sensible and many times more valuable to the community to turn these parks into playgrounds. The mature would enjoy them as much as they now do the showy park, for what is more pleasing than to see happy children at play! We owe it to those who come after us to set aside grounds for this purpose, while it is possible and to become pioneers in the work of making the American type an harmoniously developed individual. Men and women who are educated morally, physically and intellectually will make the best citizens and assure the future of their community.

J. W. DUTTON TELLS OF AFFAIRS IN OHIO.

CANTON, Ohio, Sept. 17, 1899.

Editor Tribune: This delightful Sunday morning finds me in the home city which this city is the seat, enjoys the of our President. Old Stark county, of reputation of being the third in the United States in point of agriculture, and its manufacturing interests are also immense. Here are located the famous Duber watch-case works, giving employment to thousands of men and women. There are also many other very important industries here.

I was in Cleveland last week; had not been there before since 1873—more than a quarter of a century. And oh, what a change! It is a great city, larger than San Francisco. From Cleveland I went to Akron, by electric cars, thirty-two miles. Akron and this city (Canton) are about the same size, each having a population of about 45,000. At Akron is located the famous Werner company, publishers, employing 1,200 people. It is the largest concern of the kind, not only in the country, but in the world. The National Corral Company is also there. They are the manufacturers of the famous quaker oats and Pettijohn's breakfast food, known throughout the entire country. The Barber Match Company, which controls the match market of the country, is also located in Akron. They were holding a street fair in Akron when I was there. It is comparatively a new thing. Booths are built in the principal streets, in which are displayed the wares of the merchants, and elaborate band stands are erected at the corners of the principal streets. Daily balloon ascensions and nightly pyrotechnical displays and other attractions are provided for the people, and everything is free. The cost of the fair to the citizens was $20,000. I wondered if it paid.

Last Saturday (week yesterday) I was at Kent, Ohio, the home of the honorable promoter of the Ohio division of the A. and G. W. (now Erie) broadgauge railroad. It is a thriving little city. I went down and saw the place where Brady made his jump for life across the Cuyahoga river when pursued by the Indians. I also saw the Standing Rock, famous in early Ohio history. On Saturday evening I went to Twin Lakes, three and a half miles out from Kent (George Furry will know where it is), and stayed there over Sunday. On Sunday morning, just as rosy dawn stood tiptoe on the mountain top, I arose, and, armed with rod and reel, took a rowboat and went out on the lake to entice the finny perch and blue-gills. I had, however, only indifferent success, as I did not have the right kind of bait. I caught enough to make a nice fry for all hands, and also a good appetite.

Politics is again booming in Ohio. The fight is on between Boss McLain and Boss Hanna. Both have barrels, and the petty bosses of both parties are jubilant. Money will flow in the State of Ohio this campaign as it never flowed before, and that's saying a good deal. But "Golden Rule" Jones of Toledo, the Independent candidate, will cut quite a figure, and it would not be at all surprising if he gets more votes than Utelander McLain of Washington, D. C. The Democrats, as usual, made a great mistake. They could have carried this State if they had nominated Jones.

The torrid summer is over and the balmy days of an Eastern September are here. Corn is cut and the fall wheat has been sown. Chestnuts and beechnuts walnuts, hickory nuts and butternuts are ripening. The song of the cuckoo has ceased and the mournful notes of the whip-poor-will are heard in its stead. Jack Frost has paid his initial visit, and tender vegetation begins to show the effects of his withering blight. Soon again the rough winds of winter will be roaring through the woodlands and blizzards and snow blockades will be in order.

Happy California! Heaven-favored people, who know nothing of hurricanes, and blizzards and storm doors and cyclone cellars except what you read of them in the papers, and if you prefer flowers to snow drifts, and balmy air to chilling blasts, my advice is that you stay where you are. J. W. DUTTON.

SOME VIEWS ON THE CARNEGIE GIFT.

Andrew Carnegie knows how to make public gifts. He has told the City Council of Oakland, Cal., that he would give $50,000 toward a public library building, provided the city of Oakland will agree to appropriate $4,000 per annum to maintain the same. Under such circumstances the city would pay $200,000 in fifty years to secure a gift of $50,000 in one year. That is the way to make public benefactions. Condition one's gift upon the work and charity of somebody else, and out of the united effort grand results may be obtained.—Seattle Times.

The success of Mrs. A. E. Horton in getting Andrew Carnegie to give $50,000 for a library building in San Diego led some one in Oakland to solicit a similar gift for that city. The experiment was also a success. What's the matter with somebody striking Andrew for a library building for Hanford?—Hanford Journal.

Strange to relate, Oakland has accepted the offer of Andrew Carnegie to donate $50,000 for a public library building in that city. It has been generally believed that Oakland would hurl back the offer with scorn and defiance, and request Mr. Carnegie to go to—well, to some town that is hard up.—Los Angeles Times.

Andrew Carnegie has written to the Oakland TRIBUNE that he will give $50,000 to erect a library in that city if a site is provided and $4,000 a year guaranteed to support it. "No use," says the steel magnate, "in building libraries unless we are sure of their future." Mr. Carnegie recently gave the same sum to San Diego for a library building. Santa Barbara has been waiting for some man like Mr. Carnegie to furnish the means for completing our library building. We have the site, we have the books, and the support is already guaranteed.—Santa Barbara Press.

Andrew Carnegie has written to the OAKLAND TRIBUNE that he will give $50,000 to erect a library in that city if a site is provided and $4,000 a year guaranteed to support it. "No use," says the steel magnate, "in building libraries unless we are sure of their future."—Bakersfield Echo.

CLAY CLEMENT AT MACDONOUGH THEATER.

An exchange says: "Until last night Indianapolis knew Clay Clement by name only. Not all of Indianapolis will know him otherwise today, but a large portion of the best class of theater-goers made his acquaintance across the footlights last night, and they left the theater after four acts of his comedy drama, "The New Dominion," feeling that a new star worthy of the highest respect had come to town. Mr. Clement has been practically unknown here, but if his repertory contains many characters as good as his Baron Hohenstauffen, he will not wait long for popular recognition. His art already gives evidence of really great talent. Baron Hohenstauffen is made a living personality, in which the audience is interested at once, and this is a triumph for any character actor. The Baron's struggles to master the English language gives Clement the basis for strong comedy coloring in the role, but this is not where he has made his most worthy success. Dialect is a trick that any vaudeville man may play.

"Clement has employed it simply as a background, a theatrical cloak about the form of the aristocratic and refined character of a man so cleverly portrayed. Baron Hohenstauffen is intellectual, resourceful and broad in his nature, or as broad as a German scientist can be. He is imbued with a sense of honor when he confronts villainy that makes him popular with the gallery as well as with those in plush chairs. There is a touch of sarcasm, rare in German, to his retort to a man in liquor, but Hohenstauffen is a rare character and is not off color for his eccentricities. His firmness in rebuking American impertinence in the quarrelsome Virginian was a piece of acting that would make a thrilling climax to the second act out of a situation that would have figured ordinarily as an incident only. There is no place in the drama where the actor-author has brought in melo-dramatic uproar beyond a strain of incidental music at times which lend nothing to the force of the production. Mr. Clement is particularly happy in handling the embarrassing love scenes in which the Baron takes part, and extracts both that gives it its strongest appeal to the audience. There is no great novelty to that story. The titled German, following his scientific pursuit in Virginia, falling in love with the lovable daughter of the Randolphs, declaring his passion in broken English, taking his refusal like a man, and then buying in the Randolph estate to prevent an unprincipled Southerner from having his own way."

Clement will be at the Macdonough Theater next Thursday and Friday evenings.

To Plan Sunday School Work.

Tonight there will be a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Alameda County Sunday School Association at the Young Men's Christian Association building. All pastors, superintendents of Sunday schools and others interested in the work, are invited to attend.

Small Fire.

A small blaze at the residence of Mrs. Wright, 1221 Filbert street, brought out the fire department shortly after 8 o'clock last evening. The fire was soon under control and the damage was slight.

How the City Clerk Got a Raise in His Salary

(From the Call of Sept. 23d.)

The unpleasantness made apparent in the City Council over the payment of a city numberer's salary of $50 a month to Street Superintendent Miller has opened up some old sores and many little secrets are being given away. It now appears that the additional office was given to Mr. Miller for two reasons—because he could attend to the work in the Street Superintendent's office and because it was believed by the Council that his salary should be increased above the $125 a month allowed by the charter and which is the amount now paid his chief clerk.

A Councilman is authority for the statement that the salary of the City Clerk has been increased for about a year in the same manner. The charter only allows the City Clerk a salary of $125 a month. His chief deputy is now paid the same amount. About a year ago an ordinance was passed creating the office of committee clerk to the Council. The duties of this office make it imperative that the clerk spend one night a week at the City Hall to attend the committee meetings and write up the minutes of the meetings. For this duty $50 a month is paid. Some surprise was recently expressed that an economical Council should pay $12.50 a night for a little routine work, and the following explanation was given:

"Ross Bromley, the committee clerk, does not get any more than half that $50 a month," said one of City Clerk Tompkins' strongest supporters in the Council. "It was understood when we voted for that ordinance that it was to benefit Major Tompkins. If you notice, all the committee meetings are held on the same night, and when it was proposed to have different nights the matter was very adroitly adjusted so that committees should meet every alternate week instead of waiting on each other, as some thought to accommodate Mr. Bromley. The Major, for whose relief the extra clerk was appointed, is nearly always in attendance at committee meetings and he always prepares our reports for us. I must say that the Major does more than half the committee work, but that $50 a month was only a kind ruse to get around the charter, which makes it impossible for us to raise a statutory salary. If Bromley gets $5 a night he is very well paid."

SUGGESTIONS AS TO A SITE.

The Postoffice Subject Again Under Discussion.

"It seems to me," said a well-known manufacturer today, "that, at the rate at which the moves are made to secure a site for a Federal Building in this city, a decade must elapse before one spot can be decided upon, and then Oakland will have grown to a degree that she must begin the agitation to secure another and larger structure, because a generation is the life of a move of that kind through Congress.

"The action of the supervising architect, as alleged, seems to have been premature and surprising, as I saw in an interview with Senator Perkins, which was published in THE TRIBUNE. Now, I learn that, upon the receipt of a letter on the subject from Senator Perkins, showing, as I believe, the reasonable character of the valuation of the proposed sites, the supervising architect has again opened the question, which I think ought never to have been closed.

"I am satisfied that both Senator Perkins and Congressman Metcalf are in favor of a speedy settlement of the dispute. Why could not the matter be left to them to determine? They have a knowledge of the needs of the city. They know what it is capable of doing. They know the value of realty and know more about it and the needs of the town than any one man or any commission which is unbiased, who may be sent here or appointed for the purpose of making a selection. I would favor the reference of the selection of a site to the Senator and Congressman from this district. Of course, they would not be willing to act without a third party and such a person might be selected by themselves or appointed by the Treasury Department.

"I do not know that there is any precedent for this method of selecting a site, for a Federal Building, but I am satisfied that it would cut red tape and save months and perhaps years of time in the matter of selecting a piece of ground only, to say nothing of the erection of a building.

Spain's Greatest Need.

TELLS WHY SHE WHIPPED FREEMAN

Mrs. Sara Freeman Explains a Horsewhipping Episode on the Street.

Mrs. Sara B. Freeman, the lady who horsewhipped Thomas B. Freeman, the San Pablo avenue wheelwright, on the corner of that avenue and Eighteenth street, last Wednesday evening, is a petite, refined-looking, rather elderly person, of quiet manners and demeanor and habits of speech. She is as far removed from the type of a virago as it is possible to conceive. On the contrary, she looks like a delicate, gentle little grandmother bent on thoughts and deeds of beneficence, with cookies for the little ones, instead of a horsewhip up her sleeve. It is difficult to conceive of her as the leading lady in the street scene in which Mr. Freeman was involuntarily made to sustain the part of the heavy villain.

This lady, with no little dignity and pathos, tells the story of the affair in which she so prominently figured. Her version, it will be seen, differs somewhat from that of Mr. Freeman, given last Thursday in the columns of THE TRIBUNE.

Throughout her narrative Mrs. Freeman never failed when naming him to refer to the gentleman she horsewhipped as "Mr. Freeman," and it was evident, despite the injurious aspersions which she felt called upon to correct, that her resentment is reserved mainly for the young woman whom she says she found in Mr. Freeman's company.

"It was a quarter to 8 o'clock last Wednesday evening," said Mrs. Freeman, "when I met Mr. Freeman and that young woman, with arms locked, going to the circus. I passed them on the outer edge of the sidewalk, the furthest removed from me, with the woman between us. They both stared at me.

"Mr. Freeman looked as though he would cut my throat, very stern indeed. I felt very much hurt, as you might suppose I would, to see him going to the circus, spending money on another woman while owing me money of which I am very much in need, not only alimony money that the court has commanded him to pay, but other money that he has had from me.

"While I have not shoes fit to walk out in, and have no money for rent—in fact, would be turned upon the street but for the charity of a neighbor—he was taking her to the circus. I am not only in great financial distress, but am heart-broken at the cruel treatment I have received.

"Just as I passed them, I was seized with the thought of this contrast and an uncontrollable sense of my wrongs. I had, it is true, a cat-o'-nine-tails with me in this little black silk bag. I have carried it there for the past three months, where I placed it when it was given to me by a relative of this woman for the purpose of giving her a horsewhipping. That relative said she was a disgrace to his family, and he would whip her himself but for his fear of the law. The whip had always reminded in my little satchel from the moment the gentleman gave it to me. So, you see, Mr. Freeman's statement that I had carried a whip up my sleeve for a year, with the threat and purpose of applying it to him, is not true.

"Then in a moment of indignation I turned back, and as he had partly turned around toward me, struck him twice on the top of the shoulder and the side of the head. The woman turned around, too, and said, 'Call the police,' Mr. Freeman said to her, 'Keep still.' My next aim was for her. As I raised my arm to strike her, he grabbed me by the wrists, holding them both up, while I caught the finger of one hand in the lapel of his coat. Then he pushed me around against the New England Bakery. This time the woman said, 'Let loose of her,' pushing his arm.

"Mr. Freeman replied: 'If I let loose of her she'll follow me.' He said to a man who came up, 'This woman has had a divorce from me for two years.'

"I expressed my opinion of her in strong terms, and referred to well-known events that had happened in Haywards. Mr. Freeman told her to go on, which she did, standing on the next corner waiting for him.

"Once before, I would say, Mr. Freeman held my wrists up in the air while this same woman was making her escape. That was in Haywards before I got my divorce. On that occasion a policeman came on the scene and arrested him.

"Then a man from the bakery came out and told Mr. Freeman to let me loose. Mr. Freeman said, 'Call the police.' All of a sudden he released my wrists and pulled away from my hold on his buttonhole, which he could do very easily, as my hands are weakened by rheumatism. He went on, locked arms with the woman and proceeded to the circus.

"As to most of the statements made by Mr. Freeman in THE TRIBUNE, as they have been related to me, for I have not seen them, I would say that they are not correct. I was married to him in 1887 in San Diego. I possessed money then and was in the receipt of income from the estate of my former husband. I had always lived comfortably, a stranger to want and hardship, and I got along nicely with Mr. Freeman until this woman came between us."

REPAIRS FOR DEWEY'S SHIPS.

Will Cost Millions to Put Them in Good Condition.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A special to the Herald from Washington says:

It is already apparent to naval experts that the Government will have to spend several million dollars in refitting for active service the vessels which comprised Admiral Dewey's fleet when it destroyed Spain's naval power in the Far East.

Secretary Long has approved the making of repairs to the cruiser Raleigh, which will cost approximately $500,000. The report of the board of survey which inspected the cruiser Boston, lately returned to the United States and now out of commission at Mare Island, shows that another $500,000 will have to be spent upon that vessel in order to put her in condition for re-commission. Reports received at the department regarding the condition of the cruiser Olympia show that she will have to be laid up for some time, and naval experts estimate that before she is again in service she will have cost the Government not less than $500,000 to repair.

There are three vessels still on the Asiatic station which were under Admiral Dewey's command when he fought the battle of Manila bay—the Baltimore and the gunboats Concord and Petrel. The Baltimore was only placed in commission during the winter of 1898, and will probably not come home until 1901.

The Concord and the Petrel are needed for service in blockading the island of Luzon. They were both thoroughly overhauled in 1898, and upon completion were sent to the Asiatic station. Their cruise in the Far East will cease next year, provided the situation in the Philippines is such as to permit their return home, though by that time it may be decided to refit them in the East and keep them permanently on the Asiatic station.

The repairs to the Boston will be thorough, and when completed she will be a modern ship. The repairs contemplated will cause her reconstruction, as in the case of her sister ship, the Atlanta. She will be equipped with water tube boilers and be supplied with a new battery of the latest 8-inch and 6-inch guns.

It is understood that before final action is taken in the matter of the Boston's repairs Rear Admiral Hichborn will bring the report of the board of survey to the attention of the board of construction. The board of Survey estimates that a year's time will be necessary to reconstruct the Boston, but it is the belief of department officials that two years will have passed before she is again ready for service. When the Olympia arrives in port a board of survey will be appointed and its report considered by the department.

Brigadier-General Charles Heywood, commandant of the Marine Corps, is in favor of strengthening the marine force at Cavite by another battalion of his corps. The matter has not yet been officially approved by the department, but it is possible that the marines will be ordered, especially in view of the intention of General Otis to let the navy have full swing in the province of Cavite.

It is further pointed out that Admiral Watson has depleted the force necessary for operations in this province by sending a strong detachment to garrison Subig bay, and it is deemed advisable to fill their places at Cavite by additional men.

Great deeds are expected of the marines. General Heywood has carefully selected the men sent. Of the two battalions at Cavite, or on the way, nearly 350 men are sharpshooters of the first class, and it is expected that they will do effective work when they begin operations in the fall.

Measures have been initiated by Rear Admiral Bradford, Chief of the Bureau of Equipment, to establish a strong naval station at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii.

MAYOR SNOW TELLS HOW TO RUN CITY.

An Interesting Statement of Facts Concerning the Affairs of Oakland.

Mayor R. W. Snow has written an article for the California Municipalities, as follows:

Most city officers in this State hold short terms, and few city charters provide that any portion of the government shall hold over. Out of the busy bustling life of the man of business and out of the equally busy professions, newly elected officers come to their positions sure, it may be, that all men elected before them were boodlers on incompetents, and knowing little else about their predecessors or their work. These new men bring, to be used for the benefit of the city, all that business ability which has brough success in their private affairs, and which was taken account of by their fellow citizens in the nominating convention, and at the polls on election day. These men have, more than likely, been readers of the modern magazines, and they know very much of the history of Glasgow, Berlin, and New York. They talked about these cities during the campaign; they met the complaints of the overburdened taxpayer with promises of a great reduction in city expenses, and are lucky if they did not also, and at the same time, promise increased betterments without the imposition of any higher rate of taxation.

Were officers elected for long terms, insuring time enough to study and tabulate the history of their city, it were then very unbusinesslike to so fail to record municipal expenses that such tabulation would be necessary. But, in the almost universal short term service of city officers, neglect of the proper recording of expenses, becomes almost a crime. It is upon municipal bookkeeping that the editor of California Municipalities has asked me to write something. It has pleased the editor of the publication to say that if the financial report of the city of Oakland is a fair model of municipal accounting, and he asks that a review of it be made, for the benefit especially of the smaller cities of California.

The city of Oakland does not claim that the method adopted is either altogether original or complete. It is made more simple in detail, and in recapitulation, than the reports of other cities of the world, and is therefore, for the average citizen, a better report, although no expert accountant, well versed in tabulation, would be entirely satisfied with it. But to the taxpayer who foots the bills of the municipality and who may in any year be called upon to take his place in the Mayor's chair or in council chamber, this method of accounting appeals, and is very satisfactory.

The citizen who suddenly and without preparation, finds the business of the city in his hands, asks first, what is being done and what ought to be done; whether the current expenditure is wise and prudent. The annual financial report of Oakland answers these questions as they are propounded by its own officers. Little time need be consumed by them in investigation. The value of the information so obtained would be doubled, if the same system of accounting was adopted by every city in the State, and if throughout the world, so much the better. To know how much any one city is paying for the maintenance of government, or for fire, or for police protection, is good; to know by comparison with other cities whether one's own city is extravagant, economical or parsimonious, is infinitely better. Gokismith said: "People seldom improve when they have no other model but themselves to copy after;" this is especially true of cities, governed as they are always likely to be, by the average citizen.

There has come to be a number of serious and competent students of municipal accounting in this country as well as in Europe. These see the great necessity of a universal system of accounting, and are working to this end. Oakland has been glad to assist by a liberal distribution of her reports, and has been quick to adopt the suggestions of these specialists. One result of the effort so far made to establish a universal system will doubtless be seen in the increased value of the next United States census, as compared with the last, so far as it takes account of cities by comparison. The simple method of accounting advocated, can perhaps best be shown by a copy of a few pages of Oakland's last annual report.

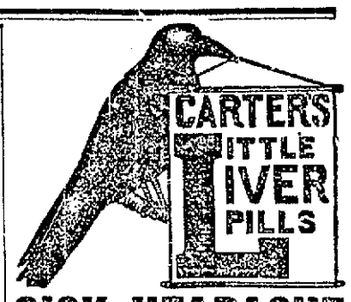

By a simple arrangement of parallel columns, the expenses of the city of Oakland, for ten years, are shown in this report at a glance. It is this classification and designation of items of municipal expense that it is desired to make universal. It will be readily seen that this summary would naturally be made up from a record of demands audited. Such is the case. The following is a copy of one page of such a record:

Board of Public Works—
Advertising	$102.00
Books and blanks	111.50
Copying	9.27
Newspapers	1.80
Printing	16.50
Postage	11.00
Repairing typewriter	5.00
Rubber stamps	6.25
Salary of secretary	1,500.00
Stationery	30.86
Telegraph and telephone service	14.25
Total	1,809.43

The information for this report is found in a book of daily entries, in which every item of expense is recorded in its proper place, when claims are presented for payment. This also checks duplicate claims if such are presented.

The classification of the income of a city, other than from taxation, is even simpler than the foregoing. Space will not permit any more than a reference to it this time. In the cities of California there is, unfortunately, little income of this sort. It will not always be so. Meantime the people pay taxes, and with the least inconvenience to them they should know where the money goes.

FOREIGNERS IN MANILA.

The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A special to the Herald from Washington says: Considerable anxiety is being displayed in diplomatic circles over what is termed the illiberal policy pursued by the United States in its treatment of foreigners in the Philippines. Although it has been specifically stated by the Secretary of War that the statutes of the United States cannot be applied to the Philippines without action by Congress, it is nevertheless a fact that the immigration laws of this country have been extended to the archipelago, as shown by the action of General Otis in excluding Chinese laborers. I am also informed that the rigorous immigration regulations in force here are enforced in Manila, and have caused some unofficial inquiries to be put on foot by foreign governments. The customs tariff enforced in the Philippines also has been a source of considerable discussion in diplomatic circles.

Under the administration of Spain Chinese were made welcome to the Philippines, though they were compelled to pay a tax, not because they were Chinamen, but in order to raise revenue for Spain. The tax was applied to all residents of the Island. It had been hoped that in view of the proximity of the Philippines to Asia and the President's favor of the open door in China Mr. McKinley would put aside his high tariff ideas and further the open door for the Philippines.

[illegible] is said to believe that the President and his advisors have given very careful attention to the matter of immigration and customs in the Philippines, but no radical action is contemplated at present. When the Philippines Commission is assembled the President will call upon it for its views and recommendation in these matters and they will guide him in framing his message and recommendations to Congress.

NEW PLAY AT THE DEWEY THEATER.

"Ten Nights in a Bar Room" will open the week's amusement at the Dewey Theater this evening. It is a sterling production of great temperance strength with a good moral thoroughly illustrated with many striking melodramatic scenes on canvas and animated with the clever efforts of the Grand Stock Company.

The piece is so thoroughly familiar to all lovers of the realistic side of the drama that a reiteration of the story would be superfluous. During the action of the piece Mendal and Mack will introduce a highly humorous sketch entitled "Odds and Ends." These vaudeville stars are pronounced the most clever knock-about artists in the profession. "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" is bound to do a big week's business, for it is of the temperance order and should draw largely from the churches, as it bespeaks an animated sermon more striking and far-reaching by far than could be delivered from the pulpit.

PREPARING FOR NAVAL PARADE.

How Jackies Will Line Up When Dewey Comes In.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—Active preparations are in progress on the ships of the squadron off Tompkinsville for the naval parade. The fighting machines are being made immaculate. It is not likely that any visitors will be allowed on board after Wednesday.

Arrangements for the squadron's representation in the land parade have about been completed. The executive officer will be in command of each ship's detachment of seamen. There will be three full companies from each ship now at Tompkinsville, except the Texas, which will have two companies. There are fifty-two men in each company. Lieutenant Commander W. P. Potter will be in command of the seamen of the New York, Lieutenant Commander J. W. Wilson of those of the Indiana, Lieutenant Commander E. Niles of those of the Massachusetts, Lieutenant Commander D. Mahan of the Brooklyn, Lieutenant Commander C. B. Harber of the Texas, and Lieutenant Commander H. T. Houston of the Lancaster.

There will be a battalion of four full companies of marines. The New York, Brooklyn and Massachusetts will each have a company. The fourth company will be made up of men chosen from the guard of the other ships. Major Murphy of the Brooklyn will be in command of the battalion of marines, and Lieutenant Mathews of the Brooklyn will be his adjutant.

It is thought that the Marietta, the composite gunboat which is now at Boston, will stop here on her way to Washington, where she has been ordered to report on October 2d. She has been fitting out, and was ordered to be ready for sea by September 27th at the latest; if she is to take part in the parade she will probably arrive here on Thursday.

The Scorpion, the converted yacht, now off Cape Ann to accompany the Kearsarge on her trial trip, will also, it is expected, arrive off Tompkinsville on Thursday.

SUBIG BAY AS A NAVAL BASE.

Will Be of Great Value in Subduing the Rebels.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—A special to the Herald from Washington says:

The sixteen centimeter Krupp gun destroyed in the insurgent trenches at Olongapo, Subig bay, is one of the guns sent to the place by the Spanish before the battle at Manila Bay. A short time before the beginning of the war Spain began the fortification of Subig bay with the intention of making it a military and naval stronghold. Admiral Dewey, indeed thought he might find the Spanish fleet there instead of at Manila, and as a matter of fact the Spanish Admiral had gone to Subig bay on April 27th, but finding that the mounting of the guns in the shore batteries had been delayed, he returned to Manila.

The insurgents took possession of the Spanish posts in the bay in July of last year, being assisted by the Raleigh and the Concord, which were sent in Admiral Dewey to prevent interference by the German cruiser Irene, whose captain had prevented Aguinaldo's forces from taking Isla Grande, at the entrance to the bay. The 16-centimeter Krupp gun corresponds very nearly with the 6-inch gun used in the American navy. Its calibre in inches is 6.3. It weighs five and one-half tons, and fires a projectile weighing ninety-nine pounds with a powder charge of nineteen pounds.

Subig bay is the most important port in the island of Luzon in the neighborhood of Manila. It is a short distance north of Manila Bay, and its advantages as a naval base are regarded as being superior to Cavite, in Manila Bay, the harbor being safer and easier to defend. It is expected that it will be held permanently by the navy, so as to afford a base of operations against the insurgents in that neighborhood.

The character of the country back of Subig Bay, and the continuance of the rainy season made it impossible for General Otis to co-operate with the ships from the land side.

LAW SERVICE IN THE ORIENT.

Thomas J. Thompson, a well-known resident of this city, returned from Manila on the transport Zealandia last Saturday.

Thompson, who was studying law at the breaking out of the war, enlisted as a private. He was detailed for hospital duty with the Tennessee regiment and was at the time of his discharge a regular hospital steward. His health failed after a year and a half of service and a discharge was given him for "three-fourths disability."

HUBER WELL TREATED BY THE FILIPINOS.

Hospital Steward Thompson, who has just arrived from Manila, says that he understood before he left the seat of war that Harry Huber, son of C. O. Huber of this city, who was taken prisoner some time ago was well and hearty, and that he was being treated in a kindly manner by his captors, the Filipinos. Huber had a good knowledge of medicine and surgery, and when he got ahead of the lines and was captured, he was forced to employ his medical and surgical skill in behalf of the insurgents. He has done his work well, and there is now no longer fear as to his fate.

WILL VISIT MILWAUKEE.

President McKinley's Stay to Be a Very Brief One.

Associated Press Dispatches by
The Tribune's Special Leased Wire.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—A special to the Times-Herald from Milwaukee says:

Henry C. Payne, who has been largely instrumental in securing President McKinley's assent to a visit to Milwaukee when he comes West next month, said of the plans for his entertainment that it is expected that the President will arrive here about noon of October 12th. He will be taken to the Pfister for luncheon, and in the afternoon there will be a reception. In the evening he will be given a banquet by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association, whose guest he will be while in Milwaukee.

President McKinley, Mr. Payne said, has not formally accepted Milwaukee's invitation, but the President has assured him that if he came to Chicago he would visit Milwaukee. Mr. Payne said that an effort will be made to have the President remain over night in this city, so as to go through the State in the day time, thus allowing the people an opportunity to see him. If he decides to do this, a special train will be furnished, and he will be taken either by way of La Crosse or Oshkosh and Fond du Lac, and the schedule will be so arranged that he will be able to stop a few minutes in each of the principal cities and the towns while crossing the State.

In case the President thinks he must be in St. Paul during the day following his stop at Milwaukee, he will leave on the midnight train after the close of the banquet.

MARRIED A SOLDIER ON THE QUIET.

Francis C. Ibsen, a soldier stationed at the Presidio awaiting transportation to Manila, was married a week ago to Mamie Malloy of this city. The couple had known each other but a week, and it was clearly a case of love at first sight. The young man prevailed upon his sweetheart to marry him without the consent of her mother, telling her that he was to be mustered out on Thursday last. As a matter of fact, his term of enlistment expires next March. The two were married by Justice of the Peace Quinn, and a few days afterward the young bride confessed everything to her mother.

The mother has requested that the marriage be repeated with proper religious ceremonies, and the young people will doubtless be willing to comply with her demand and avoid further trouble.

ROMANTIC PLAN FOR A WEDDING.

James Gamble Jr., and Miss Ritter Will Marry.

Oakland society is doubly and trebly interested in the marriage of Miss Carolyn Ritter to Mr. James Gamble, Jr., which is to take place in Los Angeles next Wednesday. The young lady is one of the fairest flowers of this city's social set. The young groom is almost equally well and favorably known here, having been born and reared in Oakland and educated in the schools of this city and Berkeley.

Besides these titles to consideration, this wedding is attended by peculiarly romantic features.

The groom is engineer in charge of the construction of a railway and telephone line from the Ray Copper Mine, limited, to the Southern Pacific system.

The mines are located about forty miles from Casa Grande, Arizona.

As Mr. Gamble, the young civil engineer, could not leave his important work at a delicate stage long enough to come to Oakland for his bride, that intrepid young lady, with the spirit of a true daughter of California, consented to meet him half way. So, accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Ritter, she goes to Los Angeles, where the wedding ceremony is to be performed the day after tomorrow.

From Los Angeles the young couple will proceed directly to the mines, where the bride will pass her honeymoon in camp, in the wilds of the Arizona mountains.

PRESIDENT WHEELER GIVES HIS VIEWS.

It is the mission of language and literature in education to bring young individual life into accord with the moulds of historical life, says President Benjamin Ide Wheeler in the October Atlantic. Through word and phrase and sentence, through tale and myth and verse, mind is quickened to enter in and occupy these nests and shells that have sheltered other human thought. Mind is expanded in the moulds of mind; not in the lifeless geometric cells of logic and reasoning, but in the life cells shapen to contain the products of the soul—the whole, the living soul.

The practically logical mind is a healthy, well-nourished mind—nothing more or less. Such mind is produced by feeding it during the years of development upon healthy, normal food, not upon the emblemed food of the logicians or the chemists. The Chinese mandarins trained upon language and innocent of pure logic are said to be the keenest practical logicians of the world. The forms of reasoning, indeed, to which a child is stimulated in catching the meanings of sentences of the mother speech, or which a boy uses in making out the meaning of a sentence in his Caesar from the imperfect data of words and syntax, are the forms of contingent reasoning which are almost exclusively employed in the decisions and judgments of actual life. Men who pretend to regulate their lives according to well-constructed syllogisms—and it must be pretense or self-deception, for there are no such syllogisms in life—are generally regarded as impossible men. They are what are politely known as cranks. . . .

So long as imitations of the larger life, the life social and the life spiritual, have power to call man out of himself and his cell, these studies have their place in the schooling of mankind, for the reach of the soul is higher than the cluch of the hand.—President Benjamin Ide Wheeler in the October Atlantic.

JAMES NAISMITH MAKES A STATEMENT.

Jas. S. Naismith, whose name was mentioned in connection with the suit brought by one Miller vs. Girvin to obtain possession of property on Claremont avenue, has made the following statement:

"The only connection that I have had with the matter has been the fact that I have had the place for sale or to rent for the past year. A few weeks ago we leased the place as agent for the owner to a Mr. F. T. Young from St. Louis. If Mr. Miller has sworn to a complaint citing therein that I have refused to give him possession of the place, or refused him admission, I can only say that he has sworn to what is absolutely false, and has in my estimation committed perjury. I never met Mr. Miller or any one acting for him, either directly or indirectly, until Saturday, the 16th inst. after the place had been leased and the tenant was in charge, and had a force of men at work putting the place in thorough order. Mr. Miller has never asked me turn the place over to him, or to anyone else. The place has been left open several times and had Mr. Miller desired to do so all he had to do was to walk in and take possession. When Mr. Miller called with his attorney they did not demand possession, but I stated to them that as I had collected the rent and had not turned it over to the legal owner, that if they desired I would put the money up in escrow until any case they brought was settled, as we would not take sides with either party if the matter was in doubt. As to the merits of the case we know nothing about it, having had nothing to do with the agreement of transfer. We have only taken that interest in the property that we would in hundreds of others who have put their property in our charge to sell or rent.

(Signed) "JAS. S. NAISMITH."

HARRY WELLS HAD A NARROW ESCAPE.

Harry Wells, formerly assistant gardener of public parks, was driving along Broadway last evening in a light buggy when a southbound San Pablo avenue electric car struck the buggy at the corner of Fifth street and completely demolished it. Wells was not seriously hurt, a few bruises and cuts being the extent of his injuries. The horse was so badly injured that it was shot by Policeman Sherry.

The rig was the property of T. C. McKenzie, a Center street stableman, from whom Wells had hired it during the day.

The car was in charge of Motorman G. M. Smith and Conductor E. Stone, who claim that Wells is responsible for the accident. He attempted to cross the tracks in front of the car, and it was impossible to stop in time to prevent an accident.
